THE OLD SCHOOL SPIRIT

Novato High School's enthusiasm for sports is well demonstrated as pom-pom girls line up for practice. Russ Announce Orbiting Of Seven-Ton Satellite

Claimed 'Heaviest' Launched By Man

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia today launched into orbit a 7.1-ton sputnik — more than big enough to carry a man. A brief announcement said the satellite was hurled into space by an "improved multi-stage rocket" but made no mention of any life aboard.

(Italian and German scientists reported hearing sounds which sounded like Morse code and "heavy breathing" coming from space, but all these unexplained noises occurred Thursday, and the Soviet Tass news agency said the rocket was launched today.)

It was the heaviest manmade satellite ever put into orbit and according to Tass was circling the earth once every 89.8 minutes in an egg-shaped path. Its farthest point from earth (apogee)) was measured at 203.4 miles; its closest (perigee) was 138.9 miles.

RUSSIA'S FIFTH

This was Sputnik V, the fifth satellite launched by Russia and the 10th known Soviet space object. In addition to the five satellites, there have been three luniks (moon rockets) and two "spaceships," one of which brought a load of animals back to earth. The other burned up with two dogs and other living creatures aboard last Dec. 3.

Tass said the launching was "in conformity with the plan for designing and perfecting space ships of increased weight."

The first sputnik, launched Oct. 4, 1957, weighed 184 pounds. Each succeeding sputnik was heavier.

'CLOSE' ORBIT

Soviet scientists apparently believed the Sputnik V shot was successful. Tass said its orbit was "close" to the one intended, and that equipment aboard "functioned normally."

Time and place of launching was not announced. It is believed most Soviet launchings

I-J's Homes Edition Wins Contest Award

The Independent-Journal's "Marin Parade of Homes" edition of last September was awarded honorable mention today in the better newspaper contest of the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.

The awards were announced at a breakfast meeting of the association's convention in San Francisco.

First place in the "best special issue" contest for dailies over 7,500 circulation went to the San Diego Union, with the I-J the only other award winner in that category. One honorable mention was given in each classification of the contest — amounting to second place.

The "Marin Parade of Homes" edition earlier took second place in the nationwide National Homes Week edition contest sponsored by the National Assn. of Home Builders.

The Novato Advance was also a winner in the CNPA contest, receiving first prize for the best editorial or series of editorials in any California newspaper, daily or weekly. The award was for a series run by the Advance last summer concerning the location of the Redwood Highway's freeway route through Novato.

In other action at the CNPA's 73rd convention, Jack Craemer, managing editor of the Independent-Journal, was re-elected the group's secretary-treasurer.

ASSEMBLYMAN AT WORK — Terrie Worth, Marin Assemblyman at the YMCA model legislature, taps her pencil as she was questioned by members of the Government Efficiency and Reorganization Committee on the Marin County bill. She got the committee to give it a "Do Pass" recommendation.

Marinite Missing After Auto Crash

Mrs. Evelyn Stokes of Larkspur, mother of a 7-month-old boy, expressed hopes today that her husband was not in the car which went over the Yolo Causeway near Sacramento Thursday night, killing at least one.

The 1955 Plymouth, registered to Richard F. Stokes, 37, of 19 Locust Avenue, Larkspur, was pulled out of the water with one body inside. The Yolo County Coroner identified the body as that of Robert Edmond Whitt, 28, a transient.

NO OTHERS

Dragging operations failed to turn up any other bodies.

"I got a call from my husband about 6 o'clock Thursday night the he was coming home," said Mrs. Stokes. She has been waiting for his return ever since.

Besides caring for their infant son, Mrs. Stokes also works for Marsh McLennan Cosgrove & Co. in San Francisco. She said her husband, a salesman, has been unemployed since last August and had been in the Sacramento area looking for work. The Stokes moved from San Francisco to Larkspur in May of last year.

NO DOG THERE

"I don't think my husband was in the accident," Mrs. Stokes said this morning. She said he is always accompanied by his pet dog, Nick, a 6-month-old German shepherd. Since no dog and no other body was found in the car, she said her husband may not have been in the car at all.

In recent weeks, Stokes had been in the company of a man named Al Bangs, about 44, who is in the construction business, Mrs. Stokes said. The description of the body found in the car does not fit Bangs either, she said.

WEATHER LIKE SPRING FORECAST FOR WEEKEND

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — More spring-like weather was forecast for California over the weekend in contrast with the cold chilling the midwest and East. (See story page 3).

The weatherman said there will be early morning ground fog tomorrow in many valley areas, and possibly a few showers in the extreme north.

Otherwise, he said, it should be like spring.

False Fire Alarms Put Ross Man, 22, In Jail

Lawrence Oliver Farnham, 22, of Glenwood Avenue, Ross, was booked in the county jail early this morning for turning in three false fire alarms in San Anselmo.

Assistant fire chief Frank Souza, while answering one of the calls, spotted Farnham fleeing in his auto from an alarm box. He gave the description of the auto and the suspect, along with the license number, to the San Anselmo police.

As police checked the license number, Farnham was stopped by officers in a patrol car as he was driving by the police station. The officers saw the hunted license number on the auto and stopped Farnham.

The first false alarm was turned in at 12:01 a.m. from Ross Avenue and Jones Street. The second alarm was set off at 2 a.m. at Pine Street and Cedar Avenue, followed 11 minutes later by a false alarm at Bolinas Avenue and Richmond Road. The three alarms were in a half mile radius.

The town of Ross also reported a false alarm at 11:45 p.m. yesterday at Glenwood and Fernhill Avenues.

Fire Chief A. T. Henrich said an unidentified woman walking her dog saw a car drive off at a high rate of speed from the alarm box.

She said she saw two boys drive away in a car which sounded like a sports car.

According to Henrich, Farnham's brother, Michael, was fined $75 in 1958 for the same offense. He also had to pay the town of Ross $100 for the expense of the false alarm after confessing to setting off the alarm.

Navy Orders Five More Polaris Subs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has signed contracts for the construction of five more Polaris submarines—in line with President John F. Kennedy's order to step up this phase of the ballistic missile program. One will be built in the Bay Area.

This word was given today to members of Congress.

The five new submarines will add to the 14 which have been built or are under construction.

Contracts for construction of two submarines went to the electric boat division of General Dynamics Corp., in Groton, Conn.

Contracts for another two have been signed with the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co., at Newport News, Va.

The fifth has been assigned for construction by the Mare Island Naval Shipyard at Vallejo.

Auto Industry Layoffs Slated

DETROIT (UPI) — Layoffs in the sagging auto industry were expected to increase next week and will total 80,000 workers by Feb. 13.

The one-week layoffs start Monday with 13,500 being furloughed by the Ford Motor Co. and another 20,000 by American Motors. General Motors has announced that 46,500 employes would be laid off for the week of Feb. 13.

Soviet Agrees To Talks Delay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia today agreed to President Kennedy's request for a six-week delay in resumption of the nuclear test ban talks in Geneva.

U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson was handed a note in Moscow telling of the Russian's agreement. The Soviet government was to make the text public later.

Thompson reported immediately to the State Department. Officials there said the tone of the note was civil and that it was relatively brief—less than 300 words.

A first reading indicated no Soviet effort to use the note as a vehicle for propaganda.

There had been some puzzlement here over why the Russians had not replied earlier to putting off the talks until March 21.

The test ban conference, which has been held on and off in Switzerland for more than two years, was recessed early in December with agreement to start again Feb. 7.

Naval Base In Cuba In Peril, Exile Says

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro will attempt to seize the U. S. Naval base at Guantanamo when he finds he is no longer able to control the growing resistance to him in Cuba, according to an exiled Havana newspaper publisher.

Jorge Zayas, publisher of El Avance until forced by Castro's threats to leave Cuba, spoke at a luncheon meeting of the California Newspaper Publishers Assn. yesterday.

He said that desperation will impel Castro to create an international incident and then blame "yankee imperialism" for its failure.

Zayas, who now publishes El Avance Criollo in Miami, Fla., told a press conference that he hoped that civil war will not come in Cuba too soon.

"Every chance should be given Castro to try to prove his claims that he will turn Cuba into a Communist paradise," Zayas said. "This will give all Cubans and all peoples of Latin America the opportunity to see for themselves the falsity of his promises."

But despite his hopes for delay, Zayas said that civil war could be imminent in Cuba. He said Castro forces have been unable to quell guerrilla forces, particularly in Santa Clara Province.

'GOVERNOR' LOSES

Teen Lawmakers Push Marin Bill

By LINDA BRIGHAM and DIANNE ROMAN

SACRAMENTO — Marin's model legislators pushed their bill to reduce the vote needed to pass school bonds over its first hurdles in the YMCA's 13th annual model legislature in its second day here today. (See photos on page 4.)

Yesterday the bill, which would reduce the percentage from 66 and two thirds to 60 per cent was given a "do pass" recommendation by the governmental efficiency and reorganization committee. Under the guidance of "assemblyman" Terrie Worth, it was expected to win approval on the floor of the assembly today and moved to the senate.

"Governor" Terry Wade of Greenbrae saw the first bill of his administration's program go down to defeat yesterday in the committee on health and safety. Wade had proposed that the state provide medical care for all narcotics addicts.

First bill to pass both houses and go to the governor for signature was a measure introduced by the Los Altos YMCA solons requiring the registration of all sex offenders.

The teen-age lawmakers also rushed bills today to toughen up on juvenile traffic violators and to liberalize laws directed at sex offenders.

They took up measures on teaching courses on the dangers of communism, lengthening the school year and legalizing abortions for the feebleminded and victims of rape.

Lorraine Garstang, 17, of Downey, argued in the Senate for a bill to send juvenile traf-

A LOT OF TALK

Quantity Of Sermons Has Little Impact

By LOUIS CASSELS
U. P. International

Every Sunday morning, 250,000 ministers stand in the pulpits of America's churches and preach 500 million words of sermons at 50 million pairs of ears.

This vast outpouring of sermonology ought to have a great impact. It is the most concentrated dose of exhortatiton and instruction to which church members are exposed. For many, it is the only 20-minute period in the entire week which is consciously set aside for serious religious thought.

Unfortunately, as every realistic clergyman knows, only a small percentage of any congregation actually absorbs the message the preacher is trying to deliver. For the rest, the carefully-prepared serman goes in one ear and out the other, barely brushing the brain.

BLAME MINISTER

It is customary to blame the minister for this breakdown of communication between pulpit and pew. The church-goer who "didn't get anything out of the sermon" rarely stops to think that he may have failed, rather than the preacher.

But there is a dual responsibility in all forms of human communication. No writer can communicate an idea without the help of a thoughtful and intelligent reader. And no preacher can get his thought across without the active cooperation of a congregation which is really listening.

Modern psychological research has exploded the notion that listening is a natural endowment, possessed by everyone except the small minority who are deaf. It shows that genuine listening is an art that has to be learned. Like writing or preaching, it calls for practice and concentration. And most people don't work very hard at it—in church or elsewhere.

In a recent article for Presbyterian Life magazine, Prof. George S. Odiorne of the University of Michigan offered some practical suggestions to church-goers on how to become better listeners to sermons.

TUNE OUT OF SERMON

He pointed out that the average minister delivers a sermon at a rate of about 100 words a minute. But the human mind can think in words at a rate of 500 words a minute or better. This disparity between speaking-pace and thinking-pace means that the listener has "plenty of time for diversions, for tuning in and out of a sermon."

The trouble is, once you let your mind wander from the sermon, it may never get back.

One way to keep your attention concentrated on the sermon is to listen for ideas and concepts, rather than for facts and illustrations. Why did the preacher choose this particular text? What was the basic point of that anecdote? Toward what conclusion, what spiritual insight, is he trying to lead the congregation? If you keep asking yourself questions like this, you'll have to think about the sermon. And there are very few sermons, however dull their presentation, which do not offer some food for thought.

APPRAISE MESSAGE

Another basic rule of good listening is to appraise the message rather than the man. A handsome, dynamic, forceful minister with a resonant baritone voice and an abundant supply of stories may deliver a trivial and superficial sermon.

The mousy little fellow with the nasal twang and the unfortunate hand gestures may have spent long hours in his study, and on his knees, preparing a message that could change your whole life—if you heard it.

God Does Not Cause Death, Audience Told

God does not cause the sin, sickness, or death of anyone, James Watt, Christian Science lecturer from Washington, D.C. told a congregation at the First Church of Christ, Scientist in San Rafael last week.

Watt, a member of the church's Board of Lectureship, said that God does not cause the death of anyone because He is eternal life, truth, love . . . "and must manifest Himself in that which expresses His nature."

Watt said that "pure spiritual knowing manifests itself in life, harmony, and happiness." Those who accept matter as real and all-powerful fail to find satisfactory solution to their problems, he asserted, because in their . . . "ignorance of God as infinite spirit, and ignorance of their own spiritual nature as Spirit's (God's) likeness, they keep on trying to solve their perplexing problems by material means and human reason rather than by reliance on prayer—that is, on God," declared Watt.

Lecture Series Is Scheduled

Two members of the faculty at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo will be lecturing in Marin County Churches this month.

Dr. Edward V. Stein, Dean of Students and associate professor of Pastorl Psychology will lecture in adult seminars on the "Creative Years." The study-seminars will be held at 8 p.m. Feb. 7, 21 and 28 at the Sleepy Hollow Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

Dr. Gordon Oxtoby, Dean of the Faculty at the seminary will lecture from the Psalms on the theme: "New Strength For Daily Living." The lectures will be at the Redwood Presbyterian Church, 110 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur, the next two Wednesdays at 8 p.m.

Mill Valley Church Plans Program

A "Tour of the World" program will be held tomorrow and for three successive Sundays at 6 p.m. at the Methodist Church of Mill Valley, announced church secretary Anna Mae Kendratuff.

The program will be sponsored by the church's school of missions. Tomorrow's speaker will be Rev. Roger Granadas, director of Migrant Ministry in San Joaquin County. Rev. Granadas, an ordained Presbyterian minister, is also in charge of the Tracy Neighborhood Settlement House in Tracy.

Priest Describes Big Task Of Missionaries

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The main task of a missionary is not to win converts, but to train native priests and church leaders, says the Rev. Michael Dempsey, superior of a Roman Catholic mission here.

"Conversions and the administration of the sacraments are consoling to every missionary," he says, "but if all missionaries insist on this as the final objective of their labors, then the church will never be established . . . in new lands."

Youth Program

A new program has been started for young people of the San Rafael Christian Church, Los Ranchitos and San Pedro Roads in Santa Venetia. The group meets each Sunday at 6 p.m., announced leader Ronald Coleman, a junior student at the Christian Seminary in San Jose.

SNOW IN SYRACUSE — This was the scene at dawn today in Syracuse, N. Y. after a storm that already had dumped 20 inches of snow, continued to fall. The areas had been placed in an emergency status with many autos and residents snowbound. (AP Wirephoto)

Two Storms Merge, Rip New England States

NEW YORK (AP)—A blizzard formed by two separate storms that joined forces slammed into New England today, leaving near-paralysis in its wake and threatening additional havoc.

The storms merged in the New York State area last night after one had swept in from the Ohio Valley and the other had wallowed up from the East coast.

AIRPORTS SHUT

They left as much as two feet of snow at widely scattered points, shutting down airports, snarling traffic and generally disrupting transportation.

Poor visibility caused the collision last night of the passenger liner Nassau and the freighter Brott outside New York Harbor. Both vessels, outward bound returned to their moorings in the harbor.

There were no injuries and only slight damage was reported.

SEARCH ORDERED

In northern Utah, an all-out search was ordered for a light plane carrying a Maryland executive who took off from Salt Lake City and headed north into a snow storm.

The pilot was William D. Kelley Jr., technical director of the Allegany Instrument Co. of Cumberland, Md.

Forecasters said as much as a foot could be expected today as far north as southern Maine as the blizzard moves northward. It reached Boston at dawn and swept onward.

The violence of this storm, plus another which hit the upper Texas Panhandle, moderate storms in the Northwest and icy conditions throughout the country claimed at least 38 lives in the past 24 hours.

The blizzard had wind-whipped more than 10 inches over the New York City Metropolitan Area early today and occasionally heavy snow remained in the forecast for the area.

Subfreezing temperatures accompanied the storm and in New York City it marked the 16th day of subfreezing readings — topping the record of 15 days set 80 years ago.

Eleven thousand men and 2,500 pieces of equipment were thrown into the battle to keep the city's 3,000 miles of streets open.

THIRD MAJOR BLAST

It was the third major storm to hit the metropolitan area this season and remnants of the earlier ones still lay heavy in the suburbs.

Idlewild and La Guardia airports were closed down.

More than two feet of snow was reported at Kane in northwest Pennsylvania with 42 inches on the ground. Other sections of Pennsylvania reported up to a foot.

West Virginia reported up to 25 inches in its northeast corner.

Seven inches fell in sections of Illinois while Ohio reported as much of a foot at some points, with some drifts in the northwest reaching five feet. There was 10-12 inches in Virginia's Shenandoah Valley.

Native Son Gets 25-Year Pin

Nick Roselli of 66 Crestwood Drive, San Rafael, is the first member of the Native Sons of the Golden West, Fairfax Parlor 307, to receive a 25-year membership pin.

Raymond H. Shone, past grand president of the organization, presented the pin to Roselli at the group's meeting this week.

Roselli was a charter member of Fairfax Parlor 307 when it was founded in 1949. He transferred from Mount Tamalpais Parlor 64, the parlor which he joined in 1933. Roselli assists his father, Frank, with a cattle ranch in Marysville, Yuba County.

Roselli's wife, Elna, is the president of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, Fairfax Parlor 225.

French Want To Keep Yank Hoop Star

PONT L'EVEQUE, France (AP)—This little Normandy town has adopted an American GI and has appealed to President Kennedy to let him stay in France to complete his education.

The GI, incidentally, happens to be a mainstay on the local basketball team. He is SP4 John H. Givens, 24, of Milwaukee, Wis.

Givens, stationed with the Army Aerial Support Center at nearby St. Andre, warmed up to his French surroundings almost from the moment he arrived in December, 1959. It was through his basketball skill that he became acquainted in Pont l'Eveque.

Givens had played on YMCA and high school basketball teams in Milwaukee and found a spot as a forward on the local Army squad. He soon was hooping baskets in Pont l'Eveque and in early 1960 got taken on as center or forward.

Everything was going well until Givens announced he was booked to return to the States next June. The local citizenry, unknown to Givens, drafted a letter to President and Mrs. Kennedy. It asked:

1. That Givens be given a grant so he can study at the nearby University of Caen after he completes his military service in France.

2. That Mrs. Kennedy become the sponsor of the Pont l'Eveque basketball team.

"This all came as a big surprise to me," Givens told a reporter. "I don't know what to say."

Elected Director

Bill Straus of Point Reyes Station was elected a director of Associated Dairymen of Oakland at a meeting of more than 100 dairymen and their wives in Cotati this week.

Study Ordered On Tiburon Incorporation

The incorporation committee of the Tiburon Coordinating Council last night voted to hire the firm of Griffenhagen-Kroeger Inc. of San Francisco to prepare an objective study of the feasibility of incorporating the entire Tiburon Peninsula.

The company is the same one hired Thursday night by a committee of Tiburon residents to study annexation of a portion to Belvedere.

COST SET

Cost of the study was set at $1,250 by Louis J. Kroeger representing the company.

The committee requested the company to prepare not only a report on incorporating the whole peninsula but also incorporating a portion of it bounded by the Tiburon Fire Protection District.

According to Kroeger, the report will cover probable boundaries; kinds and levels of services desirable; the desirability of creating new or using existing services or contracting from the county or other cities.

PARTS OF STUDY

Also included would be a tentative budget, an estimate of revenue to be expected from non-property taxes, an analysis of the effect on existing services and tax rates, and a determination of the probable tax rate based on study results and assessed valuation.

Arguments pro and con incorporating will then be presented to the council.

Gilbert B. Darroch, chairman, stated that if both reports are issued at the same time, the two groups can jointly discuss them and determine what will be best for the peninsula.

$18,400 Awarded Woman Patient For Being Burned

A Marin County Superior Court jury yesterday awarded 75-year-old Alice Golcher $18,400 damages for being burned about the chest while a patient at the Marin Rehabilitation Hospital in Tiburon.

The jury of six men and six women deliberated two and one-half hours on the fourth day of the trial before Judge N. Charles Brusatori.

Mrs. Golcher, who is currently residing in a San Rafael rest home, charged that on Dec. 1, 1959, an employee of the rehabilitation hospital gave her a cigarette knowing that she was paralyzed.

She said she was sitting in a wheelchair in the solarium of the hospital with a paper napkin on her chest and lap. When the attendant left her unattended, the cigarette dropped from her mouth and set fire to the napkin.

She filed suit against Nettle Rico Mossoni and his wife, Irene, the co-owners of the hospital, last May 12 for $30,000.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Attack In Africa

LUANDA ANGOLA, Portuguese West Africa (AP) — Bands of armed Negroes attacked Luanda's police headquarters and the civil and military prisons during the night in an attempt to free prisoners, Gov. Gen. Silva Tavares announced today.

The attack developed after failure of Capt. Henrique Galvao's effort to use the liner Santa Maria for a revolutionary strike against the regime of Portugal's Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar.

Four Die In Wreck

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (AP)—Four persons were killed and 32 injured late yesterday when an auto, a crowded bus and a truck collided on an icy highway west of this southwest Wyoming city.

The victims were the driver of the car, the bus driver and two women passengers seated directly behind him.

Kidnaper Gives Up

BERKELEY (AP)—"I'm Peterson," said the voice on the telephone. "I'm going to give myself up and I don't want any of you boys to let your cap pistols go off."

And one hour later Donald Peterson, 28, walked into the Berkeley police station with his wife, Patricia Ann, 20.

That ended a 12-hour search yesterday that had begun when Peterson, an escapee from a Kansas hospital for the criminally insane, forced his estranged wife into a car at her home here as their two small children watched.

Mrs. Peterson was unharmed. Peterson was booked for investigation of kidnaping. Holds also were placed on him by Kansas authorities who want him for escape and car theft, and by San Francisco police who suspect him of robbing a supermarket.

Cease-Fire Asked

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Congolese forces loyal to ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba appealed for a cease-fire after suffering heavy casualties bringing an end to fighting with U.N. Nigerian troops at Kindu, a U.N. spokesman reported today.

One Nigerian officer was killed and four of his men are missing in the clash that grew out of a brawl with drunken Congolese soldiers. Six Congolese were killed.

It broke out Thursday night when Congolese troops opened fire on a party of Nigerians in Kivu Province.

Vessels Collide

NEW YORK (AP) — The passenger liner Nassau and the Norwegian freighter Brott, both outward bound, collided in a snowstorm last night outside New York Harbor. No injuries were reported and both vessels were returning here under their own power.

Asks Integration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Catholic conference for Interracial Justice today called on New Orleans Catholics to break a white student boycott at two integrated public schools.

The 26-member board, at the end of a two-day meeting, said it was "shocked and saddened" that "some so-called Catholic laymen should go so far as to defy and revile their appointed church authorities." This was an apparent reference to ardent segregationist Leander Perez, who has castigated the church for its advocation of integration.

Anti-Castro Leaflets

HAVANA (UPI) — An anti-Castro plane flew low over downtown Havana last night and dropped leaflets calling for a Cuban students' strike "against the tyranny which oppresses us."

Militiamen on top of the presidential palace opened fire on the twin-engine Cessna that swooped down on the capital and dumped thousands of leaflets.

The plane which also was fired upon from La Cabana Prison fortress, managed to get away safely.

The leaflets signed by the students' revolutionary directory, which opposes Premier Fidel Castro, urged all Cuban students to go on strike Monday and stay out "until Castro's dictatorship falls."

Tests For Chimp

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Space chimp Ham flew back to his training base at Holloman Air Force Base, N.M., today for extensive examination which could determine whether man is ready to make a short rocket ride into space.

Officials are reasonably certain after a preliminary examination that a human could have survived the 156-mile-high trip that Ham took in a Project Mercury space capsule Tuesday.

Ready For Ike

PALM DESERT (AP) — The grass was never greener nor the skies bluer as this lush desert resort made plans today to greet an old friend—Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The former president will leave Pennsylvania for California early Monday by train for his fifth visit to the Palm Springs area. It will be his first desert vacation since becoming a private citizen.

Drowns In Bay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Michael Harris, 41, of San Carlos, drowned in San Francisco Bay yesterday. He fell from Pier 48.

Harris, a carpenter, couldn't swim.

Firemen recovered the body. They said Harris and his brother Fred, of Pacifica, were repairing a cabin cruiser when Michael lost his footing and fell. Fred, also a non-swimmer, threw Michael a life preserver but he didn't reach it.

Tito Plans Rocket

BELGRADE (UPI)—Yougoslavia announced today it plans to send a rocket to the earth's upper atmosphere this year.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said the nation's entry into the rocket field would have a two-stage engine.

The first stage would be boosted with solid fuel and the second with liquid, the agency said.

ACTRESS DIES—Anna May Wong, 54, Chinese actress whose Hollywood film career spanned three decades, died of a heart attack at her Santa Monica home last night. She worked in films in the U.S., England and Germany, and had few movie assignments in recent years. (AP Wirephoto)

THEY RE-GREW HAIR!

Mr. Newhouse (left), gave about 20 minutes of his time for the Harlow free hair and scalp consultation and re-grew his hair.

Mrs. Haller, (right), shows her results by Harlow treatments.

SCALP SPECIALIST HERE MONDAY ONLY WILL SHOW HOW TO SAVE HAIR AND PREVENT BALDNESS

Monday, February 6 only, at The Bermuda Palms Motel in San Rafael, California, Staff Director E. J. Mankus will give free hair and scalp consultation between 1:00 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. to hair worried men and women.

Harlow Hair & Scalp Consultants, the oldest and largest organization of its kind, makes regular visits to San Rafael, California throughout the year to assure you of success in a minimum period of time. Harlow is now in its seventh year. Last year alone, over one quarter million Harlow home scalp treatments were used.

Surveys among men and women in all walks of life show that the worst enemies of your hair are (1) doubt and (2) delay. Many balding people who are doing nothing to help themselves are justifying their condition with thinking like this: "I don't think anybody can stop hair loss"—or "I'm going to see an expert when I get around to it." That doesn't solve your problem. You are going to keep right on losing your hair until you are bald . . . unless you get your scalp in a healthy, hair-growing condition again.

HOPELESS CASES REFUSED

If you are totally bald, there is nothing Harlow can do for you. Harlow or no other treatment known is of benefit to excessive hair loss due to male pattern baldness. Neither of the persons shown above suffered from male pattern baldness. Therefore, Harlow continues its policy of refusing all hopeless cases. Baldness is slow and gradual, even in the most common forms. The two most common causes are neglect and mistreatment, but the two worst enemies are skepticism and procrastination.

BEWARE THESE SYMPTOMS

Once you notice symptoms of excessive dryness or oiliness, itchy scalp, excessive hair in the combings, tender areas, come in for an examination before follicle shrinkage ruins all hopes for a healthy head of hair.

97% SATISFIED

So selective is the Harlow system that the organization is proud of its 97% satisfaction among those persons accepted.

RESULTS ARE SO AMAZING THAT

We constantly receive letters of praise and gratitude from our clients who say "I know my hair is thicker . . . I was saved from baldness!" or "Thanks for getting my hair back," or "I had almost complete loss of my hair before my treatments, and today I have regained my original head of hair," or "My hair has not only improved in general condition, but has grown thicker." (Ask to see actual letters from clients in your home town.)

FREE CONSULTATION

There is absolutely no charge or obligation of any kind for seeing the Harlow specialist for consultation. Your only obligation is to yourself to ease your mind of hair worries by learning how easily and inexpensively you can save and thicken your hair at home. You will be told frankly and sincerely whether the Harlow Home Treatment can help, how long it will take, and the cost.

.. GUARANTEED RESULTS! ..

IF YOU ARE ACCEPTED FOR TREATMENT, The Harlow Hair & Scalp Consultants will give you a written guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it costs you nothing.

Harlow's scientific treatments are so phenomenally effective that we offer you, and every one of our clients, the opportunity to enjoy more virile hair, a healthier scalp within just 30 days! If you can get such satisfaction within 30 days, imagine the thicker hair you'll be growing within 12 months!

FREE EXAMINATION

Administered in private . . no appointment needed. Ask the desk clerk at Bermuda Palms Motel for E. J. Mankus' room number, on Monday, February 6, only, between 1:00 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. only in San Rafael, California. You will not be obligated or embarrassed in any way. Consultations are free and givtn in private.

Mr. Mankus will be in Richmond, California Tuesday, February 7, at the Don Hotel

DISCUSSING MARIN BILL — Assemblyman Terrie Worth (seated center) explains a bill, to lower the majority vote needed to pass a school bond issue from 66⅔ to 60 per cent, which she introduced for her Marin delegation yesterday at the YMCA model legislature in Sacramento. Listening are some of the Marin delegation Assemblyman Bud Wexkel (on Terrie's right) and Reporter Dianne Roman ,on her left); standing from left, legislative advocates Mike Rhoades, Alan Wulzen and Ken Oleari, Assemblyman Bill Nicholson and Cathy Hill, Reporter Linda Brigham, and Assemblyman Herb Magruder.

Don Porter, Marin Y leader, (center) was advisor to the committee. At right is Mary Alice Fox of Orange, the committee clerk.

TWO GOVERNORS AND SPEAKER — California Gov. Edmund G. Brown met "Governor" Terry Wade of Greenbrae and Assembly Speaker Teri Levitin of San Francisco in the Assembly chambers in the State Capitol yesterday. Both governors addressed the YMCA model legislature's senators and assemblyman in joint session. Speaker Levitin presided.

Marin Man Is Charged With Hit-Run Driving

A Santa Venetia chiropractor was charged with hit and run driving early today when he failed to stop after apparently hitting another car on Highway 101 near the Spencer Avenue cutoff at Sausalito.

Kenneth Eugene Cook, 39, was apprehended at his home at 806 Estancia Way about 2 a.m. today where he was traced after his license number had been taken by the other driver involved in the accident.

Charging Cook with hit and run was James Calvin Simpson, 33, of 103 Blackfield Drive in Bel Aire subdivision. Simpson told California Highway Patrolman Richard DeMarco that he was northbound at about 55 miles an hour when Cook's car passed him and struck the front end of his car.

Simpson said he followed Cook at about 70 miles an hour in order to get the license number.

Cook did not deny being in an accident when questioned by DeMarco, but said he did not know how the damage to his car had occurred.

Mrs. Swadesh To Seek Top Council Post

Mrs. Nancy Swadesh of Mill Valley announced today she will be a candidate for president of the California Democratic Council in the election to be held during the council's convention, March 3-5 in Santa Monica.

Mrs. Swadesh was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention that nominated President John F. Kennedy, and was a California member of the platform committee.

She is chairman of the issues committee of the California Democratic Central Committee, and vice chairman of the Marin Democratic Central Commitee. She was chairman of the Miller for Congress committee during last year's campaign.

Born in Pasadena, Mrs. Swadesh later lived in Illinois. She came to Marin County 10 years ago, and the following year entered political activity in Adlai E. Stevenson's first unsuccessful campaign for the presidency.

U.S. Held Preparing Plan On Congo Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United States is quietly sounding out U.N. delegations on a sweeping program to end the Congo crisis, informed sources said today.

While not yet firm policy, informants said, the U.S. plan includes: 1. Freeing the Congo from big-power interference, 2. Forming a government with broader support than that held by President Joseph Kasavubu, 3. Disarming all Congolese troops, 4. Reconvene parliament, 5. Releasing all political prisoners.

Chief U.S. delegate Adlai Stevenson would have to win the Soviet Union's agreement to stay out of the Congo's affairs. The disarmament proposal would need U.N. backing.

The rest of the program would depend upon the bitterly feuding Congolese politicans themselves.

Stevenson seems to put high priority on exclusion of big-power interference and low priority on freeing political prisoners, the informants said.

Stevenson probably will take up all the ideas with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin with the suggestion they become the U.N. program for the Congo, the informants said.

But the new U.S. administration's Congo policy apparently still is under study in Washington, they said, and Stevenson probably is just trying out the ideas on his colleagues.

Rebels Complain As Brazil Turns Over Ship To Portugal

RECIFE, Brazil (AP) — The Brazilian government turned the travel-stained Santa Maria back to Portugal today. Capt. Henrique Galvao's seagoing revolutionaries, now beached, protested that Brazil had welched on an agreement with the swashbuckling skipper.

A rebel spokesman at the police barracks — where Galvao now is quartered hoping to take up asylum in Brazil—told newsmen:

"We are shocked and taken by surprise at the attitude of the Brazilian government, since it signed a document with us guaranteeing that the Santa Maria would stay under the Brazilian flag."

The spokesman was incensed that the ship is going back to "the dictator Salazar." He referred to Portuguese Premier Antonio Salazar, whom Galvao has vowed to oppose from land now that his floating revolution has been yanked from under him. Portugal's government, however, is but an intermediary. It is turning the vessel back to the owners, the Colonial Navigation Co.

Galvao and 21 rebels were quartered in the police barracks.

The rebels were unsure of their future plans, although they have been promised political asylum in Brazil. Their main trouble is lack of money, but they plan to start a fund-raising campaign as soon as they can gain freedom.

There was a general atmosphere of astonishment among officials here at the realization that only about 30 rebels were aboard the ship yet they managed to keep more than a thousand passengers and crewmen in check for 12 days and nights. The band was originally reported to number 70.

Teen-Age Mob Broken Up; They Argued Over Girls

Police with loudspeakers broke up a mob of teen-agers milling about in front of San Rafael Military Academy grounds about 4 p.m. yesterday.

Officer Leon A. deLisle Jr. said he learned that trouble had been brewing for a week between Academy students and other youths over allegations that girls were going out with Academy students. DeLisle said the cadets had apparently had some words with San Rafael High School students.

Officers with loudspeakers induced the crowd to disperse before anyone was hurt. No arrests were made.

Late last night, however, a San Rafael youth and a military academy student were booked in jail for fist fighting at Foster's Freeze.

Officer Wade R. Powell arrested Leo Gilbert Nathan, 18, of the military academy and Warren Wilson Wedeking, 18, of 28 Ridgewood Drive, San Rafael, for disturbing the peace. Both were freed on $52.50 bail each and are scheduled to appear in court on Tuesday.

Anti-Slump Bill Slated For Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration starts a push Monday to enact anti-recession legislation, starting with the bill expected to meet the least resistance.

This is a measure to extend benefits for jobless workers as much as 13 weeks.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg says he expects the measure to have clear sailing.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.) of the House Ways and Means Committee, will introduce the extension bill plus a companion measure to make benefits available to the children of unemployed parents, as they now are to orphans and abandoned children. President Kennedy and Goldberg will send Congress supporting communications.

Mills said open hearings on the two bills are scheduled for Feb. 16, but may be held earlier.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said the Senate might start its hearings about the same time.

'Troubled' Man Taken From Span

An apparent attempt at suicide was stopped yesterday afternoon when two workers on the Golden Gate Bridge hauled a San Francisco man from outside the rail where he was standing looking into the water.

Robert Aparicio Paganini, 65, who gave his occupation as salesman, told the California Highway Patrol that he "had troubles." He was taken to San Francisco General Hospital for observation.

Stopping Paganini were Dave Zappetini, 124 Bungalow Avenue, San Rafael; and Charles Ward, 27 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael. Paganini climbed over the rail on the east side of the bridge between the south tower and San Francisco anchorage.

Bonzai Cedar Stolen

John F. O'Brien reported to Sausalito police yesterday that his 25-year-old bonzai cedar has been stolen from his garden at 73 Sunshine Avenue. The tree, a wedding gift to O'Brien and his wife, Virginia, four years ago, was taken on the couple's anniversary.

Plane With 26 Aboard Feared Lost

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)— A missing Indonesia DC-3 airliner with 26 persons aboard was feared today to have crashed into the Java Sea in the nation's second air tragedy in 12 days.

The biggest air-sea search in Indonesia's history was begun after eyewitnesses aboard the steamship Batanghari reported seeing an aircraft crash near Masalimbo Island, 80 miles off the South Borneo coast.

The missing plane vanished shortly before noon yesterday on a 500-mile flight over the cloud-covered Java Sea and the dense jungles of East Java.

Airline officials said the DC-3 carried 21 passengers and five crew members.

Band, Orchestra, Chorus Join In Stockton Festival

Tamalpais High School will send band, orchestra and chorus members to Stockton today to participate in the Stockton Musical Festival tonight in the Civic Auditorium.

The festival will draw members of high schools and junior colleges throughout California.

Robert Greenwood, conductor of the Tamalpais High School band and choir, and Mabel Pittenger, leader of the high school orchestra, will accompany the students.

The students from Tamalpais High School will join in a 300-piece band, a 200-piece orchestra and a choir consisting of 1,200 persons.

fic drivers to adult rather than juvenile courts.

"A teen-ager driving 70 miles an hour is just as dangerous as a 30-year-old driver doing the same thing. If teen-agers had to pay full fines for violations, they would soon slow down," she said.

The bill passed.

The Assembly approved a bill by voice vote to relieve sex offenders from registering with authorities 10 years after their last conviction.

On one point the teen-agers acted fairly predictably. A bill to increase the minimum age for drivers from 16 to 18 died quickly and quietly in committee.

The same committee passed a bill to require persons over 65 to take written and behind-the-wheel driving tests each year.

Another committee recommended increasing the school year from 175 to 200 days after hearing one member argue, "You can never learn all there is to know."

(Kennedy called attention in his state of the union speech last Monday to the fact that the Soviets lead this country in the size of rocket boosters. He claimed superiority for this country in other phases of space development.)

(Tass announced that the sputnik "was launched in the Soviet Union on February 4, 1961."

(In Turin, Italy, a leading scientist, Prof. Achille Mario Dogliotti, backed up claims of two radio "ham" amateurs that they picked up "moans, heavy breathing and heartbeats" from space on Thursday. The scientist said the noises "apparently were made by a human being or a superior mammal" such as an ape.

Belvedere Council To Review Plans

The Belvedere City Council will review plans for reconstruction of the community hall at its meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in the community hall, according to City Manager Britton Rey.

The city council will also review the architect's estimate of reconstruction cost submitted by San Francisco architect J. Francis Ward, who designed the original building.

It is expected that Tiburon chamber of commerce president William S. Johnstone will ask the council for funds in partial payment of the proposed study of an annexation of 800 Tiburon acres to Belvedere.

FOR NAVAL PRACTICE

Mine Laying Permit Extension Requested

Five-year extension of an authorization for a five mile long ocean area off Tomales Point used by naval aircraft for simulated mine laying has been asked of the Army Corps of Engineers by the commandant of the 12th Naval District.

The area was originally approved for establishment in October of 1956 by the assistant Secretary of the Navy. It is irregular in shape, stretching five miles southeast from near the end of Tomales Point and is about two miles across at its widest point.

No explosives are used. During mine-laying exercises small wooden markers are dropped from planes but release of the markers must be halted if any surface craft seem endangered by such drops. Between July 1 and Sept 15, operations must be limited to practice runs with no markers dropped.

Operations may be carried on only in daylight hours between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday with exception of legal holidays and then "only for periods when conditions permit surveillance of the entire area from shore stations and aircraft."

Radio communications must be maintained at all times with operating aircraft. Red flags must be displayed at the shore stations during periods when the markers are being dropped.

Before mine laying exercises, a minimum of three days' notification must be made in local "Notice to Mariners" while any organizations requesting telephone advice of scheduled operations may have it if they will make request in writing.

Any objections to the requested extension, based on the question of navigation, should be sent in writing before March 3 to 180 New Montgomery Street, San Francisco.

Ross Valley Democrats To Elect Wednesday

Officers will be elected at the second meeting of the Ross Valley Democratic Club to be held at 8 p.m., Wednesday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Kaufman, 65 Green Valley Court, San Anselmo.

Plans will be made to attend the California Democratic Council convention in Santa Monica in March, according to chairman Albert Gately. Anyone interested in the club may attend the meeting, he said.

High School Plans Course In Humanities

A course in humanities proposed at Sir Francis Drake High School next year would feature the relationship between government, history, philosophy, literature and fine arts.

If approved by the school district curriculum council, the class will be open to juniors and seniors with high academic standing, Principal Harold Allison said.

The course would be taught on an experimental basis the first year, with no credit toward graduation. It would utilize the new "team-teaching" concept, with several teachers each responsible for lectures and discussions in his own field.

Drake teachers who will probably handle the course are A. L. Lavin, literature and philosophy; Duane Miller, government; Charles Simonds, history; Joseph Rooney, art history; Robert Johnson, drama, and Scott Merrick, music.

SHE'S FOR ARMY

Recruiter Happy As Woman Signs

Floy E. Been of 257 Prospect Drive, San Rafael, won a distinction this week that warmed the heart of Sfc. Donald T. Lembcke.

In the 10 months that Lembcke has been army recruiter in Marin, and the 18 months of his predecessor, no local girl had signed up for the Women's Army Corps. Miss Been took the oath of enlistment this week, breaking the long drought.

Proud enough to pop a button of his GI jacket, Sergeant Lembcke announced that the San Rafael miss, a graduate of Merced High School, had said she signed up because "the army's offer of choice not chance really convinced me. When I finish basic training I plan to enter the medical field. The army school program offers a chance to study and to learn."

Lembcke said the door of the recruiting office at 819 A Street is wide open for any other young women who want to follow in Miss Been's footsteps.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Feb. 4, the 35th day of the year with 330 more in 1961.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars.

On this day in history:

In 1789, electors cast all 69 of their votes for George Washington. John Adams was chosen vice president.

In 1802, Mark Hopkins, American educator and president of Williams College, was born.

In 1861, delegates from six seceding southern states formed the Confederate States of America.

In 1938, Adolf Hitler took control of the Germany army.

In 1948, Ceylon became a free and self-governing dominion of the British Empire.

A thought for today: Gertrude Atherton said: "The perfect friendship of two men is the deepest and highest sentiment of which the finite mind is capable: "women miss the best in life."

Redwood Tops Drake To Take Command In Cage Loop

Nearly 3,000 See Giants Finish Fast, Win 57-49

Rugged Redwood roared down the stretch with a typical fourth quarter rally last night to turn back Drake 57-49 and sole ownership of first place in the Marin Athletic League basketball race. A standing room only crowd of upwards of 3,000 witnessed the high-scoring contest at the winners' gymnasium in Larkspur.

After barely managing to maintain a lead over their scrappy arch-rivals during the first three periods, the clutch-playing Giants stuffed in 11 points to Drake's two in the first five and a half minutes of the final stanza. This lethal bombardment gave Coach Dick Hart's stalwarts a comfortable 51-40 advantage and they coasted in to their ninth victory in their last ten games.

A highlight of the game was Redwood's battle to control Bill Wallace, the 6-4½ Pirate phenom who tallied 24 points Tuesday after transferring from St. Ignatius. Wallace did not approach that total, but his 15 were good to tie Giants' Roger Siemens and Mike Kavanagh for high-scoring honors. The lanky Pirate did not fare so well in the rebounding, as Rich Brear, Siemens, and the other Giants gave him and his mates more than they could handle on the backboards.

SCORE TIED

Although they never led Redwood, the pursuing Pirates were able to tie their antagonists at 12-12 and 14-14, before Giant Hep Wilkins sank a layup to give his team a 16-14 first quarter advantage. Redwood nursed this slim lead until near the end of the first half, when husky Kavanagh muscled in a layup and a tip-in for a 29-25 margin. The 29 first half Redwood points equalled the entire Giant total for their first game with Drake, which they won 29-28.

With Redwood controlling the rebounds, the Pirates owed their contending halftime position mainly to the good right arm of Steve Anderson, who hit on five straight push shots in a fine display of outside shooting. The Giants crowded Anderson more in the second half, and he didn't get another point.

Wallace and then Collins took up the slack for Drake in the third period, when the Pirates closed the gap to one point. With the score 39-36, Collins got into foul difficulty, and his replacement, Dave Manuel, came on to sink a jump shot in the last five seconds of the quarter, and Redwood led by only 39-38.

GIANTS SPURT

A rousing finish seemed in order, but it was the Giants who were aroused. Siemens quickly bucketed a jumper and a free throw, and Kavanagh added two more charities. Wallace drove for two Drake points, and then the Pirates stole the ball away. Trailing only 44-40, they attempted to keep the tide going in their direction. But they couldn't sink a basket, Redwood grabbed the rebound and the Giants soon had scored seven straight points and wrapped up their victory.

Redwood, playing true to form, showed its usual balanced scoring. Besides Kavanagh and Siemens, Brear bagged 11, and five other Giants hit the scoring column. Collins with 12 and Anderson with 10 trailed Wallace for Drake.

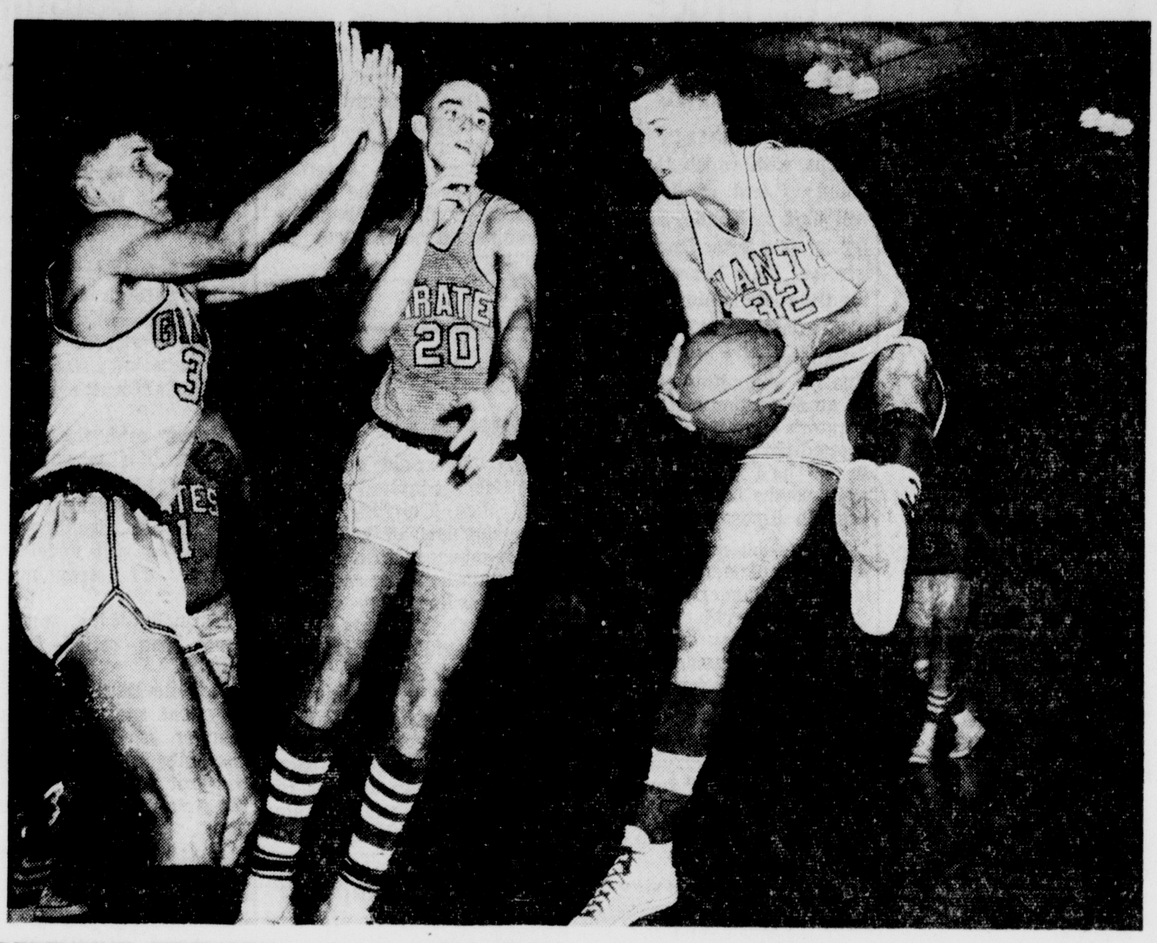

The Pirates walked off with the preliminary B game 36-28. Brad Busch meshed 13 for the winners, while Joe Weis topped Redwood with 9.

VARSITY SCORERS

DRAKE — Anderson 5-1-11, Collins 4-4-12, Bresnan 0-6-6, Johnson 1-2-4, Manuel 1-0-2, Wallace 5-5-15.

REDWOOD—Whitney 2-1-5, Wilkins 1-0-2, Bowen 1-0-2, Wylie 0-2-2, Hoffman 1-3-5, Brear 4-5-13, Siemens 5-5-15, Kavanagh 6-1-13.

DEFENSIVE STRENGTH — Much of Redwood's success in a 57-49 victory over Drake last night was credited to the Giants' domination of rebounds. Here, Giant star Rich Brear (32) comes down off the boards with rebound after missed shot by Drake's Bill Wallace (20). At left, looking like he's trying to block a shot by teammate Brear, but actually isn't, is Roger Siemens. (Jim Kean photo)

Tam Clouts San Rafael With Sparkling Defensive Effort

Tamalpais Indians, commanded by Coach Ed Chavez, would do well to become staff officers in the Air Defense Command of the Air Force if the club continues to duplicate last night's action against San Rafael High.

The Marin County Athletic League basketball game was won 46 to 29 by Tam.

Much of the credit must go to backboard "general" Pete Dornbach who captured 21 rebounds, almost as many as the San Rafael Bulldogs' team rebound total—24. Tam, with Pete's "wing commanders" Norm Kreuter and big Jim Mitchelle also taking them off the rim, robbed San Rafael of some 60 rebounds.

Big Mitchelle was all over Bulldog sharpshooter Randy Petrini, like a cheap suit, and held him to two good field goals and four charities. Chavez wisely put Kreuter on Bulldog Bruce McPhail who in the last tilt offensively injured Tam. Last night McPhail got two points.

FAST START

Tam opened up the action with a 10-0 lead and then went into mostly defensive action in the remaining three periods. At the end of that first quarter Tam had 12, San Rafael 2. At the halt it was still the Indians with 24 to the Bulldogs 14. And the third period ended with a 28-18 score for Tam.

Rich Curry was the only Bulldog who did not get iced wings last night. In hard-driving lay-up plays and well shot charities he was high scorer for the evening with 14. Petrini followed him with 8 for the Red and White. San Rafael was way off target and made only 12 per cent of its shots from the floor. In 18 attempts with lay ups and short jump shots within five feet or less of the basket, the Bulldogs dropped in only five balls.

'BEST GAME'

"It was the best team effort I have seen from a Tam club in the past two years," declared Coach Chavez. "There were very few mistakes defensively," he added.

Coach Bob Muster was disappointed today, but he was not bowed. "This league is still up for grabs," he said. "And we still have the opportunity to come through." He said that last night his boys were "really tight," and that they were hurt by Tam's first period sprint, and domination of the backboards for the entire contest.

The Bulldog B team had a much better evening by upsetting second place Tamalpais Bs, 23 to 18. Bret Tovani led the Red and White with 11 points. Indian Bill Gilligham chalked 6.

VARSITY SCORERS

TAMALPAIS — Kreuter 6-1-13, Dornbach 1-1-3, Mitchelle 2-2-6, Hoetger 4-3-11, Bullock 3-7-13.

SAN RAFAEL — Petrini 2-5-9, Hall 1-0-2, Robertson 0-1-1, McPhail 0-3-3, Curry 4-6-14.

Wildcat Star Equals Marin League Record

Although he sat on the bench for half of the final quarter, Marin Catholic's Eddie O'Connell last night equalled the Marin Athletic League's single game scoring record with a 27-point burst that led the Wildcats to a 68-39 rout over the Novato Hornets at Novato.

O'Connell's 11 field goals and 5 foul shots put his name in the two-year-old league's record book alongside that of San Rafael High's Terry Tevis who set the 27-point mark last season.

Had O'Connell stayed in action until the final buzzer, he probably would have broken the record for the Marin ace was extremely accurate from all angles. He made 11 of the 16 shots he took.

Marin as a team fell short of the league scoring record of 71 points in a single game set last year by San Rafael against Novato.

NEVER CLOSE

The game was never close as Marin jumped off to a 14-6 first quarter lead, exploded for 20 points in the second period for a 34-15 halftime edge and breezed the rest of the way with 14 and 20 points in the final two periods.

Paul Kruger and Jim Soden each added nine points to the Marin cause and Coach Bernie Schneider singled out Jerry Smith for his best game of the year.

Moe Sparrow again was high man for winless Novato with 14 points.

In the preliminary game Ron O'Connell scored 12 points to lead the Marin B team to a 31-26 victory. Nick Willard of Novato was high man of the game with 15.

VARSITY SCORERS

MARIN CATHOLIC—Smith 3-1-7, Williams 1-0-2, Enos 2-0-4, Ahern 2-0-4, Kruger 4-1-9, Soden 1-1-9, Ongaro 1-1-3, Purtell 0-1-1, Malvino 0-2-2, O'Connell 11-5-27.

TARS UPSET SHASTA, CLOSE IN ON LEAD

A full-court press, plus Marinites Lynn Livie and Ron Blum, was the formula that blew the Golden Valley Basketball Conference apart last night.

The College of Marin Tars ripped into league leaders and previously undefeated Shasta Junior College 62 to 45. Shasta now has five wins and a loss while Marin has rumbled toward what may be its fourth straight conference title. The Tars now carry four wins and two losses.

Tar Coach Cal Riemcke had sent his club into action with the demand for a supreme effort and a full court press. When the clock began it looked as if the Tars were going to do just the opposite as Shasta roared to an eight-to-nothing lead, but Marin finally got its feet out of the tar in that same period and responded to Riemcke's decrees. Livie sank enough buckets for 12 points in the first half. Those first two periods also saw Blum better Livie in points by two digits.

At the end of the contest Livie hit 44 per cent of his shots and recorded 22 counts. Blum was on target for 19 points and made 42 per cent of his attempts. The Marin club racked up 45 per cent of its shots, while Shasta struggled for a 27 per cent recording.

What Coach Riemcke was really concerned about today was Shastas' game tonight with an equally strong club, Napa Junior College. Shasta will be minus its two star front men for the contest due to ineligibility. Riemcke will be in the stands rooting for Napa, a result that would give the Tars a share of the lead.

Fullmer, 21, has a 24-3-1 record for 28 pro starts. He is unbeaten in his last eight fights.

Archer is a kid brother of fighter Jimmy Archer, who was a regular in the small clubs. Joey's record shows a perfect 29-0 with seven knockouts.

The 10-round match will be carried on network (ABC) television at 7 p.m. PST.

Podres, Neal Sign Dodger Contracts

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Los Angeles Dodgers today passed the halfway mark in signing players for the 1961 season with the return to General Manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi of the signed contracts of pitcher Johnny Podres and second baseman Charlie Neal.

Podres at the age of 28 is the dean of the Dodgers' pitching staff, the left-hander having joined the club in 1953 when he was 20. Podres had a 14-12 record last year and a 3.08 earned run average. And for the fourth consecutive season he defeated every club in the National League.

Bowling: Women's Tourney Slated; Benson's 658 Tops Major Leaguers

Deadline for entry in the Marin County Women's Bowling Assn. Tournament has been extended an extra week, reported Jean Molino, secretary of the association.

Closing dates for entries is Feb. 12, she said. The tournament, first in history of association, will be held at Greenbrae Lanes on Feb. 13-19 and 25-26. All women league bowlers in the county are eligible to participate, said Mrs. Molino.

The tournament will be run in three divisions: Team event, doubles, and singles. All scores will be on a handicap bases which gives each bowler an equal chance to win, explained the secretary.

It is estimated that the total prize fund to be shared by the winners will be some $1,000.

HONOR ROLL at the top flight Country Club Classic in San Rafael this week was headed by stylish and youthful Ted Benson, who was substituting for the ailing Paul Gottlieb. Ted hammered a solid 658 series on games of 226, 235 and 197.

The league also produced these top-notchers: Forry Wilson, 188-244-212—644; Forest Henry, 215-222-182 — 619; Frank Theriault, 223-202-186—611; Charles Valsecchi, 179-202-228—609.

NAVE LANES

In baseball it has been said that "anything can happen." After some of the oddities that have taken place at Nave Lanes this week, it can be declared that, anything can happen in bowling, too.

Fran Rouse bowls for one of the teams in the Hamilton Officers' Wives League. Last week she bowled 149-125-155—429. This week, she bowled precisely the same score in the same precise order.

George Curry bowling for Caesar's Den in the Tavern and Restaurant League just barely could endure the taunts and insults when he bowled 116-117-118.

Elmer Tynes, Ron MacEachern and Dave Catton all had one thing in common: Each rolled the same score for three consecutive games. Like we say . . . anything can happen in bowling, too.

Fred Martinelli in the Novato Majors led the pack with a scintillating 248-212—620. Gene Naugle repeated this week with his 225-212—616, also in the Novato Majors. Carl Jensen had 210-562 and Stu McCulloch had 248-583.

In the Marin Masters, formerly called the 885 Scratch, Bill Howie scored with his 226-573, Chico Valsecchi with 201-227—596.

Charles Burridge bowled a 223-607 in the Fighter Squadron League and George Brovath was pleased with 220-611.

In the Novato Sportsmen League, Frank Sampietro helped his team win three with 227-576, with Bill Gerton bowling cleanup a 202-567. In the Thursday Night Mixed Doubles League Evalyn Kelly had 210-523, Em Smith with 517 and Jeanne Blumenfeld 473.

Bill Faulk stood the Nave Thursday Men's Handicap League on its collective ear with his high series of 618 with a 238 game. This for a 157 average bowlers should stand as a peak performance for some time.

Rollie Walberg's 218-581 in the Loma Verde League was high for the evening.

Evalyn Kelly was high bowler in the Nave Glamour Girls League with her 513. Ruth Hare bowled 507 and Jewel Deutsch scored 498, Loxie Dowdy had 469 and Betty Arnold rolled 454.

Other top scores from Nave Lanes:

Elks League, Bob Smart 209-585 and Frank Azevedo 205-567.

Nave Alley Kats, Virginia Moorehead 511, Mardee Lax 491, Jewel Deutsch 487, Marilyn Johnson 487.

Hawaiian League, Winnie Berger 456, Evelyn Zeh 466, Nini Firpo 461, Bill Howey 214-569, Les Taylor 558.

MAC KOCH 563, Herm Salkin 558, Shelley Bolick 479 and Cork Endy 460 were headliners in the Koch of California League at Greenbrae Lanes.

GREENBRAE'S active women's schedule was headed by Sally Powers' 156-182-173—511 series and Eloise Simpson's 200 high game in a 507 total in the Thursday "Splitniks League." Other leaders in that league: Jo Ann Jenkins 478, Mae Evansco 471, Jeanne Gaffney 470, Dot Rosso 470, Barbara Hockerson 454 and Nat Solberg 467.

Coffee Cuppers League leader was Jean Blumenfeld 456. Twink Forsyth converted the 3-7-10 split.

"Hits and Mrs. League" leaders: Peggy McMurtry 500, Jackie Filipelli 200-457, Lynn Glover 473, Jean Taylor 455, Jeanne Gaffney 466 and Pauline Stockburger 453.

GAMES OF 232 by Ed Mudrick and 214 by Fred Thurman among the menfolk and 185 by Barbara Monroe and 184 by Lu Sharp among the gals highlighted the Two of Each Kind League at Greenbrae, reports Rose Kavanagh.

In yesterday morning's "Bowling Bags League" at Greenbrae Fifi Ross hit a 200 high game and 481 total. High series honors went to Jeanne Gaffney with 171-179-143—492. Other tops: Rozamund Kavanagh 467, Dottie Rosso 461.

Murtaugh Agrees To One-Year Pact

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Danny Murtaugh plays 'em one at the time and signs his contracts the same way.

Agreeing to a one-year pact even though he led the Pittsburgh Pirates to their first world championship in 35 years, Murtaugh signed on the dotted line yesterday for an estimated $10,000 raise that brought his salary to approximately $40,000.

Murtaugh, puffing on a 50-cent cigar, said it took about one minute for him and Pirate General Manager Joe L. Brown to agree to terms.

Supervisors Have Bruce On Agenda

Leading the list of communications with which the Marin County Board of Supervisors will start its Monday session at 2 p. m. is a letter from Administrator Alan Bruce concerning the room he formerly occupied as assistant.

Supervisor J. Walter Blair, finance committee chairman, on an inspection of the administrator's suite last Wednesday, spotted the idle office and told Bruce he'd better run, not walk, to the board with a proposal to dispose of the space.

Bruce's letter represents a prompt implementation of this idea. He is understood to have checked on what the room is costing and may speed up an intended recommendation on finding some use for it.

Representatives of the Audubon Society are due for hearing at 2:30 p. m. Monday on their desire for lease of four Richardson Bay canals which they want to add to their bird refuge.

Against the board's view that a lease would be useless because the canals can't be closed, under obligation to the state, it is understood that the society feels possession of a lease might open the way for some dispensation from the state.

Letters and lease are the only two items on the Monday agenda but such pending issues as the need to do something about the condemned Lucas Valley county hospital structure might be brought up at any time.

Tuesday's agenda includes several continued matters. Among items due for consideration are amendments to the Greenwood Lagoon Master Plan, tentative and final maps of Marinero Oaks, and a state wish that a barrier be placed in Tiburon Boulevard to prohibit left turns at the South Knoll Road intersection.

Boys, 13, Admit Entering House

Two 13-year-old boys from Fort Baker admitted to Sausalito police Thursday kicking open the door of a Sausalito house, entering, tossing a chair over a porch railing and breaking the railing. They were released to their parents.

Police said Russell S. Reagan of 1 Edwards Avenue reported at 5:10 p.m. that he saw two boys enter the house of M. Allen at 17 Alexander Avenue. After calling police, Reagan stopped the boys as they ran out the back doorway. Nothing was taken from the house.

Highway Plans Seen Boosting State Economy

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Speeded up federal highway spending will give a $58 million boost to California's anti-recession program, Gov. Brown said yesterday.

The federal action releasing highway funds to the states two months early came as the State Department of Employment reported a steady worsening in California's jobless picture.

Brown said the state will call for bids at once on the highway projects to help reduce unemployment. The federal action also triggers release of a still undetermined amount of state matching funds.

Normally bids would not have been called for until April 1.

A State Department of Employment spokesman said the number of unemployed has risen steadily since the first of the year when 6.1 per cent of the state's work force was jobless.

He said the rate of persons exhausting their unemployment insurance benefits is increasing rapidly. The benefits are considered a key "built-in" anti-recession tool.

Department officials have predicted unemployment conditions will continue to deteriorate until spring.

Brown Calls Tax Cut Plans 'Irresponsible'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Proposals in the California Legislature to cut taxes are "irresponsible" in the opinion of Gov. Brown.

The governor told the California Newspaper Publishers' Assn. last night the proposals make "no provision for the cuts in state services that tax reduction would require."

He expressed confidence that the publishers, in considering the tax cut moves, "will again recognize the voice of the demagogue when it is heard in our land."

The governor said his proposed $2.6 billion budget was tightly balanced and realistic. He reiterated his pledge that he would keep it balanced "if I have to use the governor's power of item veto."

Brown lauded the California publishers and the press in general for "impartial reporting" during the 1960 presidential campaign.

He said he strongly disagrees "with the views attributed to Mr. Nixon and some of his advisers" that biased reporting played a part in the defeat of the former vice president in the last presidential election.

"The facts did not bear this out," the Democratic governor said. "The tone of the stories and the evenness of column inches accorded the candidates seemed pre-eminently fair."

Brown urged the publishers to "fight fiercely to retain your independence."

"In your own crusty, constructive way, you must continue to let both the Republicans and Democrats know that you stand for the right, not the party."

He said he plans to set up next to his Capitol office a rotating display of historic California newspapers and other items from the Newspaper Hall of Fame.

Real Estate Talk

Daniel F. Deedy, executive secretary of Marin County Real Estate Board, will speak on "What's Ahead in Real Estate" before the Marin Toastmasters Club 890 at 7:15 p.m. Monday at the Woodlands Restaurant in Kentfield, according to administrative Vice President Del E. Preston.

Highway 101 On Council Agenda

Engineer Daniel Coleman will make his recommendations for widening Highway 101 through San Rafael at a meeting of the San Rafael City Council 8 p.m. Monday in the city hall.

The San Francisco engineer sent copies of his report to the council last Wednesday. He is expected to bring large-scale maps of the plan to the council meeting. Public hearing dates on the plan will be set.

A public hearing on an appeal by Dewey Staggs to build an auto wrecking yard at 4143 Lisbon Street in East San Rafael will be heard. Staggs formerly operated a wrecking yard on Tiburon Street but was ordered to relocate outside of East San Rafael by the planning commission in January, 1960.

The planners on Jan. 10 denied his application for a use permit to establish a new wrecking yard on Lisbon Street.

Councilmen will also consider the recommendation of the Parks and Recreation Commission to acquire the six-acre Robinhood Drive parcel in Glenwood for a park site.

A public hearing date is expected to be set on the creation of an administrative-professional zone which would be limited chiefly to offices, studios and laboratories.

Medical Group's Plan Detailed

Marin County Medical Society members are to vote on whether they believe members of the medical profession should be covered by social security.

A report in yesterday's Independent-Journal may have given the impression the poll being taken by the society is on inclusion of medical care under social security, as proposed in the Forand Bill and similar measures.

The medical society's poll is not concerned with medical care. Doctors represent one of the largest groups not now covered by social security. The poll is on whether they should seek inclusion in social security benefits.

Baptists Re-Elect Aide At Seminary

Rev. Harry R. Koontz, director of publications and student services at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Strawberry, this week was elected to a fourth term as secretary-treasurer of the Baptist Public Relations Assn.

Koontz and Rev. Carl Halvarson, assistant to the seminary's president, attended the association's annual meeting at Memphis, Tenn.

Dental Health Week Will Be Observed

The Marin County Dental Society and Public Health Department will mark Children's Dental Health Week next week by offering free dental examinations for children on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The examinations will be given at the county health offices at Fourth Street and Grand Avenue, San Rafael, from 1 to 4:30 p.m. each of the three days. They will include bitewing X-rays where needed, and will be given to children from two years up who appear with a parent or guardian.

There's need for the program of dental examinations, said Dr. Charles M. Dahl, health education chairman for the dental society. He cited some figures to prove it:

In a survey of about 2,600 school children in Marin two years ago, it was found that 85 per cent of those between 5 and 17 years old had decayed permanent teeth; 72 per cent of children between 5 and 11 years had decayed primary teeth.

The average 17-year-old had 13 permanent teeth affected by decay; the average 5-year-old had four primary teeth affected by decay.

"Very little information is known of the dental health of Marin children of pre-school age," said Dr. Dahl. "It is hoped that a large turnout of pre-school children at the dental examinations next week will provide the necessary statistics to fill this gap."

Normally, he said, the child should receive the first dental examination at three years. By that time, he usually has all his "baby teeth."

Two dentists and their assistants will be on hand at the health department Monday afternoon. And if more are needed, they can be called in on short notice, said Dr. Dahl.

Dental Unit Seeks Closer Group Ties

Dental society officials and Marin County School officials met this week for the purpose of developing a closer relationship between the state and county dental societies.

The education committee of the Marin County Dental Society, headed by Dr. Charles Dahl, and Robert Tumelty, director of health education services for the California State Dental Society met with Dr. G. Edward Rudloff, coordinator of health and physical education, and Mrs. Luella Mersereau, dental hygienist for Marin County schools.

The groups will continue to meet and develop an active year round program of dental health education for children of Marin County.

In College Workshop

Victoria Acciari, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Acciari of 94 Montecito Ave., San Rafael, is one of 50 students at San Jose State College who will participate in the college's fourth annual student management workshop next week.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Babies Will Dance At Lagunitas Club

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

There'll be a new look at the Lagunitas Club's annual Mardi Gras party a week from tonight. This is because of the edict of Mrs. Oliver Lombardi, entertainment chairman. She has decreed that members must come costumed as babies to the dinner dance. If not as babies they must be dressed as children. This promises to add up to a lot of fun with parents donning the clothing (if they can get into it) of their offspring.

THE BOHEMIAN Club in San Francisco will be the setting for the dinner of the Food and Wine Society of Marin County on Wednesday night. The Owl and the Red rooms will be opened for the event. George Goheen, president, who has been in the East on business will return just in time to preside. Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Scovel, former Kent Woodlands residents, always come from their home in Sacramento for the dinners.

Sponsors for next week's affair are Judge and Mrs. Jordan L. Martinelli and Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Harless. The sponsors select the menu and the wines to be served. Margaret and Buck Harless have just returned from a three weeks vacation in Hawaii. They headquartered at the Halekulani in Honolulu and visited Kauai and Maui. While in Honolulu Buck and Margaret were entertained by Bob and Margie Trumbull, formerly of Kentfield, at their spectacular home on Diamond Head. The Trumbulls now have a travel agency but Margie is continuing her writing. She was a newspaper columnist and had her own radio and TV shows in San Francisco.

JUST FOR FUN the inactive group of Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary gets together for a luncheon and talk fest each year. Next Wednesday has been set as the day and the locale will be the Peacock Gap club. Mrs. William R. Davis has made the arrangements with which Mrs. Newton Longfellow assisted. The latter always take charge of the bridge tournament the inactives give each spring to raise money for Sunny Hills.

Among those in the group on Wednesday will be Mesdames Ernest R. Denicke, Leon Smith, Joseph Hickingbotham Jr., Percival Scales, Curtiss Hayden Jr., Rafael Dufficy, Ralph Riley, Charles Howard Allen, Ned Griffith, George Smith, William Baldwin, George McKenna, William Brantman, William Niccolls, Richard Sims, James Pressley, R. Philip Barker, Patricia Oyster, John Cahill, John Reichmuth, Joseph Nicholson, Hugh Carruthers, William H. Brooks, James Levensaler, David Plant, Hale Hunter and William Bricca.

FOLLOWING the annual golf tournament of faculty members of San Francisco City College on Sunday at the Meadow Club, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Gaddy entertained about 40 of the group at a buffet luncheon at their home in Sleepy Hollow.

JEAN CAROLYN LEVY and John Wesley Cline III, who will be married on June 10 at Stewart Memorial Chapel at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, were honored by his cousin, Mrs. Edwin G. Weed, and her husband at their Belvedere home at a cocktail party and supper on Sunday night.

Jean and John had an opportunity to preview the altarward trek when they served as maid of honor and best man, respectively, at last Saturday's wedding of Miss Gudrun Holler of Frankfort, Germany and Herbert Detleve Kind at St. Michael's Lutheran Church in Berkeley. The reception following was in San Francisco at the Pacific Avenue home of John's parent's, Dr. and Mrs. John Wesley Cline. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seppl Holler of Frankfort and her husband, a US graduate who is with the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory of UC, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kind of Hamburg, Germany.

Friendship of the Clines and Hollers date from the tour of duty in the United States Army, John Wesley Cline III made in Germany. Mrs. Cline and her daughter, Mrs. Robert John Patrick Jr. (Janet Cline) now living in New York, met Gudrun while visiting in Frankfort.

FOLLOWING a winter holiday in the south, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred M. Harris have returned to their home in Larkspur. They went by train to Denver, Colo. where they visited friends and continued the train journey to Kansas City and New Orleans. They were there about a week enjoying the southern cooking and visiting the old plantations. They saw much of the country on trips down the bayous. The Larkspur couple flew back from New Orleans.

LT. COL. and Mrs. Walter Nagel of Corte Madera will host a dinner party tomorrow evening in honor of Maj. and Mrs. Ray Gardner of the Presidio of San Francisco.

Attending will be Messrs. and Mesdames George Larsen, James Hankins, Glenn Laney, Mr. Paul Stouffer, Mr. and Mrs. William McAlpin and Mrs. Rae Nysted, all of Corte Madera, Col. and Mrs. C. P. Joyce of Lucas Valley, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Liebig of Novato, Col. and Mrs. Richard Norton of Burlingame, and Dr. and Mrs. Johan Hultin of Corte Madera.

The party will also mark the retirement of Col. Nagel after 20 years in the service of the U. S. Army and the Nagels' 17th wedding anniversary.

HONORING Mrs. Mert Hipsley on her birthday, Mrs. A. Barlow Ferguson gave a luncheon on Monday at her Kent Woodlands home. Gathered to wish Bee many happy returns were Mesdames Ervin Vickers, John Merryman, Leavitt Olds and Mel London.

Barlow and Bettye with the children are spending this weekend at Sugar Bowl Lodge. Also at Sugar Bowl are Dr. and Mrs. Judson Mackby, their neighbors.

ENJOYING the fresh snow last week at Edelweiss ski resort were Dr. M. B. McIlroy of Belvedere with his four oldest children, Mrs. Norman B. Livermore Jr. of San Rafael with her two sons and the George Bertrams of Kentfield with their three children.

TWO COUPLES, the William E. Wastes and H. Wallace Hickmans, have returned from a delightful cruise. They left by train for New York on Dec. 31 where they boarded the Gripsholm on which they cruised to the West Indies, visiting San Juan, Puerto Rico, and then went to Nassau and Panama. They returned to New York and came from there by train.

MARIN JUNIOR LEAGUERS were in the spotlight (actually) when San Francisco Junior League Inc., to which Marin Unit belongs, staged its glamorous luncheon and style show Wednesday at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel in San Francisco. The San Francisco league is celebrating its fiftieth year so the show was called The Golden Age of Fashion and the golden theme was carried out in decorations. The runway was outlined with fat gold cupids holding golden balloons and Mrs. Huntley (Alice) Bennett of Ross, chairman of decorations, told me of difficulties the balloons presented. The committee started to inflate the balloons with helium, which has a terrific pull. "I had visions of some of the smaller girls being pulled off the runway, heaven-bound," Alice said. So it was decided to blow into the balloons. "We had to blow up 114 of them," Alice sighed. "Of course we had some assists from the youngsters."

First girl on the runways was petite Mrs. W. James (Betsy) Dawson of San Rafael, one of the two golden heralds. Marin members modeling in the first group were Mrs. William J. Morris, a provisional member, who wore a gold cardigan and skirt, Mrs. Alfred Castle, a worker for the MARC project, who modeled a briefly jacketed gold suit, and later appeared in a lantern skirted black shantung dress. Also Mrs. Robert Mellon Daiss in a golden pullover and slim skirt.

In the sequence of the Golden Years of the Junior League, Mrs. George D. Hart, active in Marin Junior Museum work, appeared. Then came a fabulous display from the collection of Ferdinando Sarmi. Mrs. Clarence O. Amonette appeared in an ensemble, a print dress with a black alaskine coat; Mrs. Morris in a brown orchid print silk costume and in the finale Mrs. Amonette in a pink cloud chiffon gown.

I watched the intent Ferdinando Sarmi as he viewed the show (he was at the table next to mine) and he was delighted when Mrs. John Marty Brill, the former Katie Manning of Ross, whose gown of black chiffon had giant roses on it leaned from the runway, to hand him a long stemmed red rose.

The show was concluded with the arrival of the golden girls including Mrs. Leonard E. Weisenburg Jr. of San Rafael and Mrs. William Byron Wallace of Aoss, in the display of more than three million dollars worth of diamond and emerald jewelry. The girls wore golden chiffon gowns. Mrs. Weisenburg's had a criss-crossed bodice and Jo Wallace's tunic was outlined with marabou.

The runways were the Garden Court, Rose Room and Gold Ballroom where about 1850 women viewed the show from tables centered with cupid vases filled with daffodils and based with gardenias.

At a table together were Mrs. John Stevenson, wife of Major General Stevenson, commanding general of Mamilton Air Force Base, Mmes. Benjamin Cassidy, Robert Margison, Robert Bell, John Bellamy Jr., William Barnes, Marvin Good and the latter's mother, Mrs. William Spring. By the way, Major and Mrs. Good are leaving Tuesday to spend three weeks in the Islands.

A group of former classmates from Miss Burke's School joined forces at another table . . . Marinites included Mrs. Fisher Kinslow (wearing a hat of brown roses), Mrs. Stephen McKee, Mrs. John Wiley (Connie Mathews before her recent marriage), and Mrs. Ben Innes, who with her family recently moved into a new purchased house in Winship Park.

Mrs. John O'Neill, Mrs. Jack Welisch, and Mrs. William Brantman with a group of friends from town. The Brantmans spent a week at Palm Springs last month.

Mesdames G. Gordon Brown, Rafael Dufficy, August Belden, and William Bricca and the latter's sister-in-law, Miss Edna Bricca at a table in the Garden Court.

Also over from Marin together were Mesdames Hugh Carruthers, Patricia Oyster, Mozart Kaufman, William Niccolls, Minthorne Tompkins, James Mackay, Carl Brown Jr., and Frank Barsocchini, the latter tan from her recent trip to the Islands.

Mrs. James McNab with a group of friends from Petaluma, Mrs. Harding McPhun, Mrs. Philip Crane Jr., and Mrs. Richard Newell, Mrs. Peggy Gray Hayden, Mrs. Sanford Lowengart, Mrs. Frank Newton and Mrs. M. Rogers Hunton and Mrs. James Green.

Incompetent Teachers Only Hamper Our Youngsters In Their Studies

"My daughter has had two incompetent teachers in a row," writes a mother. "I'm wondering what to do.

"She is in fourth grade. She made a good start in first and second grades. But last year her teacher was neurotic and very irritable. My girl was terrified. This year her teacher is wishy-washy. The pupils run wild. She doesn't try to stop them.

"My girl can't read as well as she did two years ago. She hates school. Do I have any obligation in this situation?"

As I see it you do have an obligation.

Most teachers are capable but a few aren't. What then?

What should a mother do?

I suggest you take two steps:

The first is to protect your girl since she is your responsibility. Be selfish for her and ask the principal to move her into another room. Keep on asking. If need be, go to other school officials. One year with an incompetent teacher is enough. Two years may be permanently disastrous.

Your second step is to help make it possible for school officials to get rid of bad teachers. In many cities it is impossible to dismiss them. Years ago teachers were fired too freely. The nod of a political boss was all it took. Many wonderful teachers were let out.

Then parents and teachers revised the laws. They arranged things so teachers get permanent tenure. They are protected. But the laws go too far. You and I know that a few thoroughly incompetent teachers are kept on the job year after year. They hurt our children. But they can't be let out.

School officials are trying to revise the teacher tenure laws. They want to have reasonable leeway. They seek a middle ground between the extremes. You, your husband, and your friends should join with them.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Happy Birthday To USO, Greetings To Men It Serves

The USO presents different images to many of us.

To some it is a show in a jungle of Burma or in a cow pasture in Normandy. To others it recalls dancing with a junior hostess in some strange American city, or being tied down by a well-meaning senior hostess who thought it might be fun to talk. It means coffee and doughnuts, cigarettes and sandwiches.

To some of us here in Marin it means the old USO hall in San Rafael, formerly the American Legion hall, now the office of the county superintendent of schools on east Fourth Street.

There was action in that hall until 1948 when John Clahan, then the guiding light of USO, closed it up in the wake of the war's end.

But USO didn't end too. Today is its twentieth birthday. Today there are more than 200 active USO clubs in this country, one in San Francisco. Other clubs are in such places as France, Italy, Turkey, Puerto Rico, Japan, Korea, the Philippines, Morocco, Greece and elsewhere.

Even today the USO shows are putting on 35 performances a day to audiences which vary from 15 to 15,000 in some of the most isolated spots in the world.

So it is a pleasure to say Happy Birthday to the USO, a United Crusade agency, and to wish it many more years of success in letting our million service men and women overseas know that we haven't forgotten them, and that we care.

The Bugs In Winter

Most insects are quite short lived. A few weeks or a month is a good long life for most bugs. Few die of old age.

If insects were not such stupid and prolific creatures, we would feel sorry for them because of the hunted lives they lead.

But it is rather futile to feel sorry for bugs which do not realize they are hunted until they are gobbled up or poisoned. Or to feel badly about the death of insects which, if permitted to reproduce unchecked, might soon devour the world.

Bugs were made to flourish in the warm months and die out in the cold. However, Marin is not cold enough to do a good job of insect destruction. Therefore, some specimen of a noxious insect is always available to the searching eye.

In brief: Marin insects lead short, troubled lives, but not short enough or troubled enough to be of much help to the gardener.

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BOUQUET to Eben N. Baty of Paradise Cove, author of travel books, for being smart enough to be aboard the Santa Maria on its exciting voyage. Bet he's got his next saga almost written.

A BOUQUET to Auditor Leon DeLisle for offering a positive suggestion as to what should be done about the county hospital; there's been entirely too much negative discussion going on about it.

A BOUQUET to the Dumont Manufacturing Co. of San Rafael for its part in the successful launching of the Minuteman intercontinental missile. They produced an important plastic piece of the first stage of the solid fuel missile which made a 100 per cent score on its first try.

BOUQUETS to the Rex B. Harners on the arrival of Michele Diane, first baby born at Novato General Hospital; Mrs. Harner was the first patient. And BOUQUETS, too, to the new hospital for not charging them anything.

A BRICKBAT to whoever instituted that "San Rafael championship yo-yo contest"—we thought that craze was safely buried. Will somebody bring hula hoops back, too?

BOUQUETS to the voters of the Marshall and Tomales School Districts for voting to unify their small districts while knowing full well that the next step will be a bond issue for construction of more adequate facilities for their students.

MAKE "PERSEVERANCE" A BY-WORD

"Without perseverance," advises an old Welsh proverb, "talent is a barren bed."

The great men of history set for themselves high goals and remained in the thick of the fight until they achieved their purpose.

The dictionary defines "persevere" as "persisting in any enterprise undertaken, in spite of counter influences and opposition."

It comes from the Latin word "per," meaning through and "severus," meaning strict or difficult days.

Samuel Johnson had this to say about this admirable quality—"Great works are performed, not by strength, but by perseverance."

While it is true that man may persevere in evil as well as in good, try to use your talents, few or many, to the best of your ability, and leave the rest to God.

In these days where personal comfort is so much regarded, resolve to be different by persevereance in deeds that are helpful to man and pleasing to your Maker.

"He that shall endure to the end, he shall be saved." (Mark 13:13)

Grant me the grace, O most strong God, to be more persevering in good than Your enemies are in evil.

Depressed Areas Bill Seems Sure Bet

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON—After five years of legislative roadblocks and Presidential vetoes, area redevelopment legislation to provide federal aid for areas of high and persistent unemployment seems a sure bet for approval in 1961.

President Kennedy and Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D, Ill.), chief sponsor of the legislation, have both pointed out that almost 100 industrial areas and hundreds of rural counties are now plagued by high and chronic unemployment, and have asked Congress to take speedy action on an area redevelopment bill.

Douglas, with 39 Democratic co-sponsors, Jan. 3 introduced a new area redevelopment bill, S 1, which was written with the assistance of Kennedy staff aides.

LIKE DOUGLAS bills in past years, the bill sets up three $100 million loan funds —$100 million for new plants and expansion in depressed industrial areas, $100 million for industries in depressed rural areas, and a third $100 million fund for loans for public facilities. All these loans might be made by direct Treasury financing without specific Congressional appropriations.

For impoverished areas unable to sustain new loans, the Douglas bill authorizes $75 million in grants for new public facilities. In addition, the bill provides $4.5 million annually for technical assistance to depressed areas and $10 million annually for subsistence payments to workers being retrained for new duties.

IN A DEPARTURE from the Democratic-backed bills vetoed by President Eisenhower in 1958 and 1960, however, the new bill places a limitation of $144.5 million on the total funds that may be expended under the measure before July 1, 1962. The provision was reportedly inserted at the insistence of budget-conscious Kennedy aides.

Congressional sources confirmed that the $114.5 million limitation would mean that before mid-1962 many of the hundreds of areas potentially eligible under the bill might receive little more than minimal assistance, if any. However, useful pilot projects could be started.

One provision of S 1 likely to cause dispute places the area redevelopment program under an independent area redevelopment administration. Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges has insisted that the new program be placed under his department, but an AFL-CIO representative at Senate hearings on S 1 charged that it would be a "catastrophe" to put the program under the Commerce Department.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY has said he would prefer to have the program under the Department of Commerce, but would accept an independent agency.

Opponents of area redevelopment legislation appeared at the Senate hearings to claim that S 1 raises hopes for the people in depressed areas. Opponents say lack of industrial capital is not the central problem of the depressed areas, so that low interest loans would have little effect in drawing new indus- Congress.
tries to areas otherwise not attractive to them.

Opponents also claim that federal loans would unfairly favor some areas.

Extra Added Attraction For State Legislators

By CHAPIN A. DAY

There was an "extra added attraction at the State Capitol this week. The attraction for the men was red-headed Susan Hayward; for the women, black-haired Dean Martin.

The event was the filming of the M-G-M movie "Ada."

"ADA"

Just what the plot is, we didn't learn—except that Martin becomes governor and then in some way or other, Ada (Susan) becomes governor. (We did learn the story is NOT based on the life of Ada Fusselman, although we bet she would have made a pretty good governor.)

THEY WERE AT work when we arrived shortly after 9 a.m. They were still shooting when we left, about 5:30 p.m.

In that time, a 1935 DeSoto taxicab (California plates, year and sticker covered with a piece of yellow tape) drove up in front of the Capitol's front door (there isn't even a road there any more) and the couple got out.

They walked up the steps, into the Capitol, through the narrow entrance lobby and into the rotunda. Here they were intercepted by a state policeman and half a dozen lines were exchanged.

The whole thing probably won't take more than a minute in the final production. It took all day to film.

ONE REASON it took so long was the crowd of people who wanted to see and hear. Susan, in a purple wool dress and straight purple coat with dark brown fur collar and cuffs (could have been mink) would walk in hand in hand with Martin (black suit and severe black topcoat), she'd say to the Capitol guard: "Meet your new governor!"

Somebody in the rotunda crowd or hanging over the balcony on the second floor, would think this funny and start to laugh. Then, with the scene ruined, Martin would start to clown and the crowd would howl.

Poor little director David Mann, a tiny black leather cap perched squarely on the top of his head, would give everyone a little lecture on no noise. They they'd start out again.

"Folks, all be quiet. Be quiet, please.

A makeup man would wipe the sweat off Martin's brow and add some powder. Another would adjust Susan's hair.

"Ready. Shhhhhhhhh! Cameras. Action."

They'd start their entrance again.

Then some student in the balcony would drop his books. Ruined again.

WE ONLY SAW four actors. The taxi driver, the two stars, and the Capitol guard. There must have been 40 other employees. They wiggled around everywhere. Long power lines were strung through the hallways. Passage was partly blocked by scores of lights of all sizes. The main Capitol entrance was closed to ordinary people.

Outside on both sides of the Capitol were parked huge trucks and trailers. The dressing rooms was such a big trailers it had three axles. There must have been half a million dollars worth of equipment in evidence.

FOR REHEARSALS, after standins had sweltered in the hot lights while cameras were adjusted, the stars doffered their coats and donned dark glasses. Susan's had a strip of white adhesive tape across the bridge so as not to put marks on her nose.

This is a political column? Oh, yes! Senators and assemblymen piered over the shoulders of others, people like an assistant director of finance, and girls from the stenographic pool. Definitely, it was a political activity.

YOUR WEEKEND QUIZ

By CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

PARTY LEADERSHIP

Q—The Montana senator who Jan. 3 became majority leader served as Democratic whip of the 85th and 86th Congresses. Can you name him?

A—Sen. Mike Mansfield (D, Mont.) was elected unanimously by the Senate Democratic caucus.

Q—The senator whom Mansfield succeeded as majority leader was re-elected Nov. 8, but it was immediately apparent that he would resign as senator to assume another position of federal leadership. Why?

A—Mansfield succeeded Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson (D, Texas).

Q—True or false: Liberal Republican John Sherman Cooper (Ky.) was re-elected Senate minority leader, a post he first assumed in 1959.

A—False. Everett McKinley Dirksen (Ill.) defeated Cooper for the post in a party caucus Jan. 7, 1959 and was re-elected without opposition Jan. 3, 1960.

Q—The former Democratic presidential aspirant chosen to succeed Mansfield as whip was (a) Sen. Stuart Symington (Mo.); (b) Sen. Estes Kefauver (Tenn.); (c) Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.).

A—(c). Humphrey was chosen unanimously.

Q—True or false: Carl Hayden (Ariz.), President Pro Tempore of the Senate, has served in Congress longer than any other man.

A—True. Senators highest in seniority traditionally are elected to serve as President Pro Tempore. Hayden was elected as Arizona's first Representative when it became the 48th state in 1912, and moved to the Senate in 1927.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Taxes, Not Center, Defeated Schultz

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Re: Niels Schultz' letter condemning the civic center poll taken by the I-J:

The results of the poll refute Mr. Schultz' logic that because William Fusselman and Walter Blair were elected (and not Vera Schultz) they had a mandate from the voters to stop work on the civic center.

Many who voted (in the poll) against the drastic action of the newly elected supervisors were not particularly in favor of Frank Lloyd Wright's design originally. However, once the decision was made and construction commenced, they could not condone abandoning the project.

These, Mr. Schultz, are some of "the taxpayers who were not sufficiently interested to re-elect Vera Schultz."

It was not the civic center issue primarily, but rather the clever and widespread publicity campaign inferring that Vera Schultz was responsible for our recent reassessment and high property taxes in this district than won Mr. Blair his place on the board of supervisors. As Mr. Fusselman must now be acutely aware, it is easy to be a dissenter when someone else must be responsible for constructive action.

Perhaps the cost of the civic center work stoppage may be offset by the aroused public interest in county government and its proper function.

Who Pays Cost Of Election?

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I am concerned about William Fusselman's statement in Friday's (1/27/67) Independent-Journal to the effect that he hopes private sources will arrange for contributions to a fund used to sponsor a county election.

This is neither right, honorable nor desirable; legitimate expenses of government should be paid for by government.

If elected officials have to go outside proper channels for financing elections, then the alternate possibility must be considered that these officials will be in the debt of such contributors.

Ignacio Mayor Receives Support

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I am in firm agreement with "Mayor" Galli of Ignacio, that the new post office branch be designated "Ignacio," not "South Novato" as related in your Jan. 27 edition.

It seems an old established area name can be abolished and a new designation substituted at will. Why can't the new post office branch be known as the "Novato Post Office, Ignacio Branch?" At least, the name "Ignacio" does exist and has for many years, but no one ever heard of "South Novato," other than the boulevard till now.

Is Hollis Going To Run For State Superintendent Of Schools?

Our School Supt. Virgil Hollis, who is still remembered for his vigorous door-bell ringing campaign of 1958, may be looking for more doorbells to ring—this time on a state level.

The grapevine has it that friends of Hollis are quietly grooming him to run for the job of State Director of Public Instruction.

We don't know exactly how accurate the rumor is at this point. But if the rumors continue for any length of time, you can bet there must be some truth to them.

Because if it weren't true, then the energetic Hollis would be out tracking down each such rumor to nip it in the bud.

If he is going for the bigger job in 1962, we wouldn't be surprised if he tries to get his campaign off the ground before the year is up.

IT'S BAD ENOUGH when the candy vending machine in the sheriff's office swallows your dime without coughing up.

But it's worse when you do get your candy, and it turns out to be something that looks like a leftover from last summer's heat wave.

APPLICANTS FOR San Rafael police officer's jobs were asked whether they had any "licenses or certificates" that might better qualify them.

"Yes," was the enthusiastic reply from a 22-year-old hopeful from Mill Valley. "I've got a marriage license."

SPEAKING OF marriage, the most ungrateful man of the week is the young fella who got special permission to get married while being held in jail last year. We recall that the sheriff and the judge made a special effort at the time to shield them from too much publicity and embarrassment.

Then this week, he ups and escapes from the jail. There's gratitude for you.

NEW JUVENILE Officer for the county looks even sharper in his civilian suit.

I'll bet some of the younger set won't mind being hauled in by a man like that.

WHEN AND IF the civic center is completed, we hope they carve out some identifying sign on the main building.

The present courthouse, you've probably noticed, has nothing on the front or back to indicate what it is.

People have stopped me on the street, looked up at the flagpole and wondered: "Could you tell me if this is the city hall or the post office?"

IF COUNTY FIRE Chief Charles Reilley looks a little dazed these days, don't blame it on the weather or the advent of spring.

He just was fitted to a pair of new goggles, and he's having trouble getting adjusted to the new situation.

IT'S TRUE. Fred Jensen is thinking of running against Supervisor Walter Castro.

DID YOU KNOW you can sprinkle salt over shelves and floors where ants gather to drive them away? Well, that's what it says here in an exclusive news release (from a salt company).

The Warden's An Organization Man

Fred R. Dickson Runs San Quentin Prison With Its 4,950 Inmates Like A Corporation

By JOHN CHAMBERS

At 60, tall, solidly built Fred R. Dickson looks more like a successful business executive than the warden of the second largest prison in the United States.

Perhaps it is because the gray-haired boss of the Big House runs San Quentin like a corporation. The inmates have labeled him an organization man.

"There is a chain of command and he sticks to it," one former inmate explains.

Dickson has spent most of his 41 years in penology as an administrator and organizer.

"Be fair and honest and the inmates will respect you." That is the code he has set for himself and the men who work under him. This simple direct standard of honesty and fairness was learned on his father's farm in Missouri.

"DO THE JOB assigned to you" is another principle followed by the man in charge of San Quentin's 4,950 inmates.

In the massive job of running a prison, which is exceeded in population only by the 6,000-inmate penitentiary at Jackson, Mich., Dickson remains rather aloof from the prisoners.

Still the warden's jovial attitude and wide grin have earned him the good feelings of most of the inmates.

His administration lacks the casual comraderie peculiar to that of the famous San Quentin warden Clinton Duffy, under whom Dickson worked as associate warden. But there is none of the friction with the State Department of Corrections that accompanied some of Duffy's ideas and reforms.

GRAY-HAIRED Fred R. Dickson is the boss at San Quentin Prison, the second largest such penal institution in the United States. As such he is "mayor" of a community of 4,950 inmates who are paying their debts to society. Dickson discharges his duties in an efficient and fair manner that has won him the praise of experts in penology—and the respect of the inmates of the prison. (Independent-Journal photo)

Dickson has occupied the warden's modern ranch-style house, perched on a hill just inside the prison's main gates, since 1957 when he was appointed by Gov. Goodwin J. Knight following the death of Warden Harley O. Teets.

In the warden's huge paneled office, Dickson tilted back his green-leather swivel chair and propped a shoe against the scrolled edge of his heavy walnut desk.

BETWEEN thick flowerprint drapes the yellow walls of the prison loom 100 yards away. Across the street and beyond the parking area the Bay laps at the rock scattered shore.

"Our main function here is to protect society," the warden began slowly. "But our main problem is in changing the prisoner's outlook towards society."

The prison must prepare its inmates to cope with society and its standards when they are released. Ninety-eight per cent of the inmates are released, Dickson emphasized.

How are these criminals rehabilitated to face society?

Those who have committed crimes of violence, like murder, assault or sex crimes, undergo psychiatric therapy in an effort to eliminate their hostility towards society.

For burglars, forgers and thieves the best method of rehabilitation is to teach them the satisfactions of honest work, the warden said. "Many of them have never really worked in their lives," he added.

Jobs are provided at the prison textile mill, clothing and furniture factories, print shop and half a dozen road building and forestry camps.

However, overcrowding is hampering the prison's rehabilitation goals.

"WE HAVE TWICE as many inmates as we have room for," Dickson declared. The most desirable arrangement, he said, is to have one inmate in each of the prison's 2,700 four-and-one-half by 10-foot cells.

Single-celling is not like solitary, the warden cautioned. Most inmates are only in their cells when they sleep—they spend the day at work and recreation, and many go to school at night.

The 29 men on condemned row, located on the sixth floor of the north cell block and reached only by elevator, spend 21 hours a day in their cells. They are given three hours for exercise.

How does the man who carries out six or seven executions a year feel about capital punishment?

"I have grave doubts that it serves its function—which apparently is to deter murder or other capital crimes," Dickson said. "I think it lulls people into a false sense of security."

He quickly added: "But I also believe that the state has a right to execute a man if that is the wish of the majority of the people."

The date of execution is set by the courts. The time is set by the warden. Dickson said most executions are held at 10 a.m. to give the courts a chance to act that morning.

"I WILL OFTEN hold up an execution for a minute—or three or four minutes when I know there is a good chance of a reprieve," he said.

The worst part of capital punishment is waiting through the years with the condemned men through the continual delays that increase tension, the warden said. The average time spent on death row before a prisoner is either executed or somehow taken off the row is two years.

"Many men are glad when the waiting is finally over. Some have told me they would rather die than spend their life behind bars," Dickson explained.

"When the chips are down, most men can face the situation. They don't yell or crawl—although they are nervous when strapped into the chair. Many get a good night's sleep before the execution.

"It's not a pleasant task to take a man to his death. But it doesn't bother me emotionally. I won't let it. I'm doing it for the people of the state."

Dickson said the execution is conducted in as businesslike manner as possible. When the time has come, Dickson motions to an associate warden to bring the condemned man from the holding room to the gas chamber. After the man is strapped into the chair, the two guards leave the chamber and the door is sealed shut. After that it is automatic routine.

When the container beneath the chair is filled with water and acid, the executioner presses a lever releasing two one-pound sacks of cyanide pellets into the solution. The gas does the rest.

CARYL CHESSMAN, probable the most publicized inmate executed at San Quentin, was a clerk in Dickson's office in 1945 when Dickson was associate warden and Chessman was serving a sentence for armed robbery.

Quentin's Warden Dickson

His Administration Of San Quentin Is Based On Fairness

Dickson termed him a good note-taker.

"I am convinced he was guilty," Dickson said. "Who am I to question jury members who spent weeks listening to testimony?"

In his 41 years working with criminals, Dickson has never been faced with an armed convict or a violent armed rebellion.

"Most men in prison want to do good," he said. "They want to stay out of trouble and get out of prison."

The troublemakers, some of them psychopathic, number between 250 and 500 and cause 90 per cent of the prison problems, Dickson added.

"One of my toughest jobs is to protect the good inmates from these troublemakers. We try to keep them isolated in the adjustment center."

Dealing with prisoners of one sort or another, has been Dickson's job since 1919—the year he became a coach and physical teacher at a reformatory in Kearney, (pronounced Carney), Neb.

HE HAD TAKEN the job after a summer spent pitching for the Pueblo, Colo., team in the old Western League. "I liked baseball, but I was only a mediocre player," the warden said modestly.

Born on Jan. 22, 1901, in Nevada, Mo., Dickson grew up on his father's farm, attended high school in Nevada and then spent two years at Missouri State Teachers College.

He transferred to Nebraska State Teachers College in Kearney where he worked part-time in the reformatory. At the college he played football and baseball.

Graduating with a bachelor of arts degree, Dickson went to the University of Chicago and studied social work administration.

In 1921 he went to Napa State Hospital in Napa County as director of recreation. In the town he met Laura Daniels. The couple was married on April 5, 1922.

Later that year they moved to the Idaho State Training School where Dickson served as boys counselor.

In 1923, Dickson returned to the State Industrial School for Boys at Kearney, Neb., as assistant superintendent. After seven years, he became superintendent of the reformatory, a position he held until 1944.

When the California Department of Corrections was organized in 1944, the state's penal system was overhauled and numerous positions opened on what later became a civil service basis. Dickson applied and was made associate warden at San Quentin.

HE LEFT San Quentin in 1946 to become assistant superintendent and business manager of the minimum security men's prison at Chino in San Bernardino County.

Between 1954 and 1955, Dickson was granted a leave of absence from the prison and spent 16 months organizing a separate department of institutions for the State of Washington.

He returned to Chino as superintendent in 1955. Two years later, on Sept. 4, 1957, Dickson was appointed warden of San Quentin Prison by Governor Knight on the recommendation of Richard A. McGee, director of the State Department of Corrections.

An active member of prison associations, Dickson has been a member of the American Correctional Assn. since 1930 and a member of its board of directors for 20 years.

He was voted "Warden of the Year" in 1956 by the Warden's Assn. of America. In 1940 he served as president of the National Conference of Juvenile Agencies. He is a member of the California Parole and Probation Assn.

The energetic warden, a registered Democrat, has served as a Red Cross roll call chairman in Kearney, Neb., and during the war was chairman of his county's bond drive and a member of the county tire rationing board. He is a member of the Rotary Club in San Rafael, the Elks and a Free and Accepted Mason.

DICKSON HAS four children: Fred Jr., senior classification officer at the Federal Prison at Lompoc; Lindberg B. Dickson, engineer-foreman at Lockheed Air Services in Ontario; Mrs. Betty J. Denker of Honolulu, and Mrs. Dorothy Mann of Vacaville.

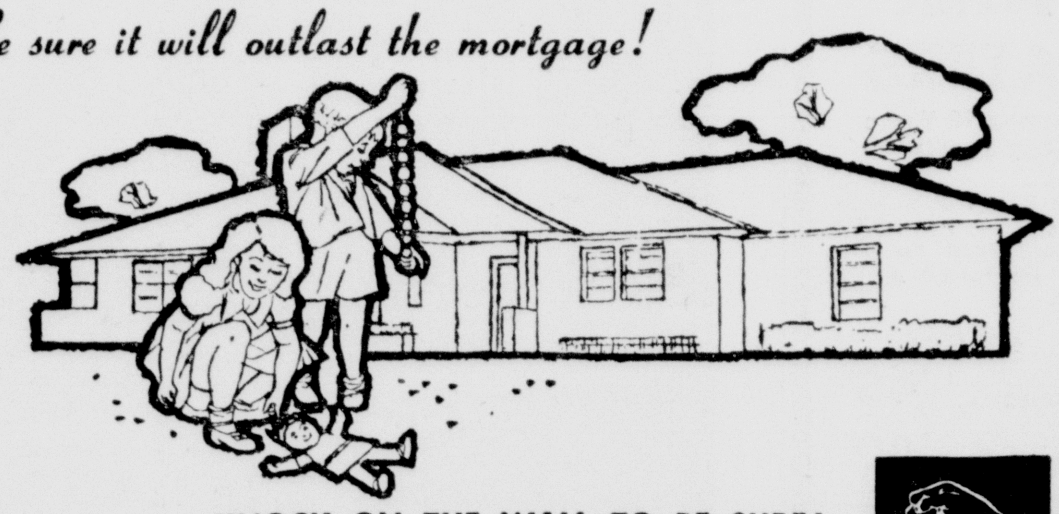

The warden has been an active administrator in the Boy Scouts of America for 35 years.

"It is a good method of stamping out crime before it starts," he said. "We do the best we can with the inmates when we get them, but we get them too late."

Hamilton Base's 'Big But Little' Railroad System

'Old 7198' Isn't Supersonic Like Its Jet Neighbors, But It Does The Job

By T/SGT. ED BURCHILL

In this day and age of high speed, especially at a home of sleek, new jet aircraft such as Hamilton Air Force Base, it is a jolting experience to suddenly come upon a 45-ton, 20-year veteran that lumbers around the base and alongside the air field at the now almost forgotten speed of from 10 to 12 miles an hour.

At Hamilton this startling contrast between the supersonic and the slow is provided by "Old 7198," the diesel locomotive that makes its way around Hamilton on the base's "Big But Little" Railroad.

It's big because of the volume of business it handles. And little because the area the engine can call its domain consists of but between three and three and a half miles of track.

The diesel, powered by two 150 horsepower engines, is 28 feet long, nine feet wide and 12 feet high.

IT HAS THE capacity to haul up to eight loaded boxcars per trip. However, it rarely has need to pull more than two or three cars at any one time.

An engineer and a switchman operate the vehicle when it is in use. The locomotive section has a personnel total of five, all thoroughly trained in the various operations of the locomotive such as driving, switching, shunting and minor maintenance. All had previous experience in railroading before joining the service.

Heading the section is a civilian, Vern L. English of 10 Garden Court, Novato, a veteran of 15 years in the maintenance and engineering business. Second in command and the non-commissioned officer in charge is T/Sgt. Harold L. Palmer, 43, Tacoma, Wash.

Palmer, a railway equipment superintendent in his Air Force specialty, has had 10 years experience as a conductor on the Milwaukee and Pacific Railroad.

Chief engineer on the Hamilton Line is S/Sgt. William Osbourne, 32, of Jackson, Ohio, who served three years on an Army passenger train as a conductor. Rounding out the crew and interchanging positions with Osbourne are A/2c Jerry W. Martin, 24, a native of Sallisaw, Okla., and a two year veteran with the Santa Fe Railroad and A/3c Raymond N. Elrod, 20, from Sanderson, Tex., who served 13 months on the Texas and New Orleans Line before joining the service.

The locomotive was originally built in 1941 at a cost of $49,198 and saw previous military service before it was recalled to the Army yards and completely overhauled. It entered service at Hamilton on July 20, 1950.

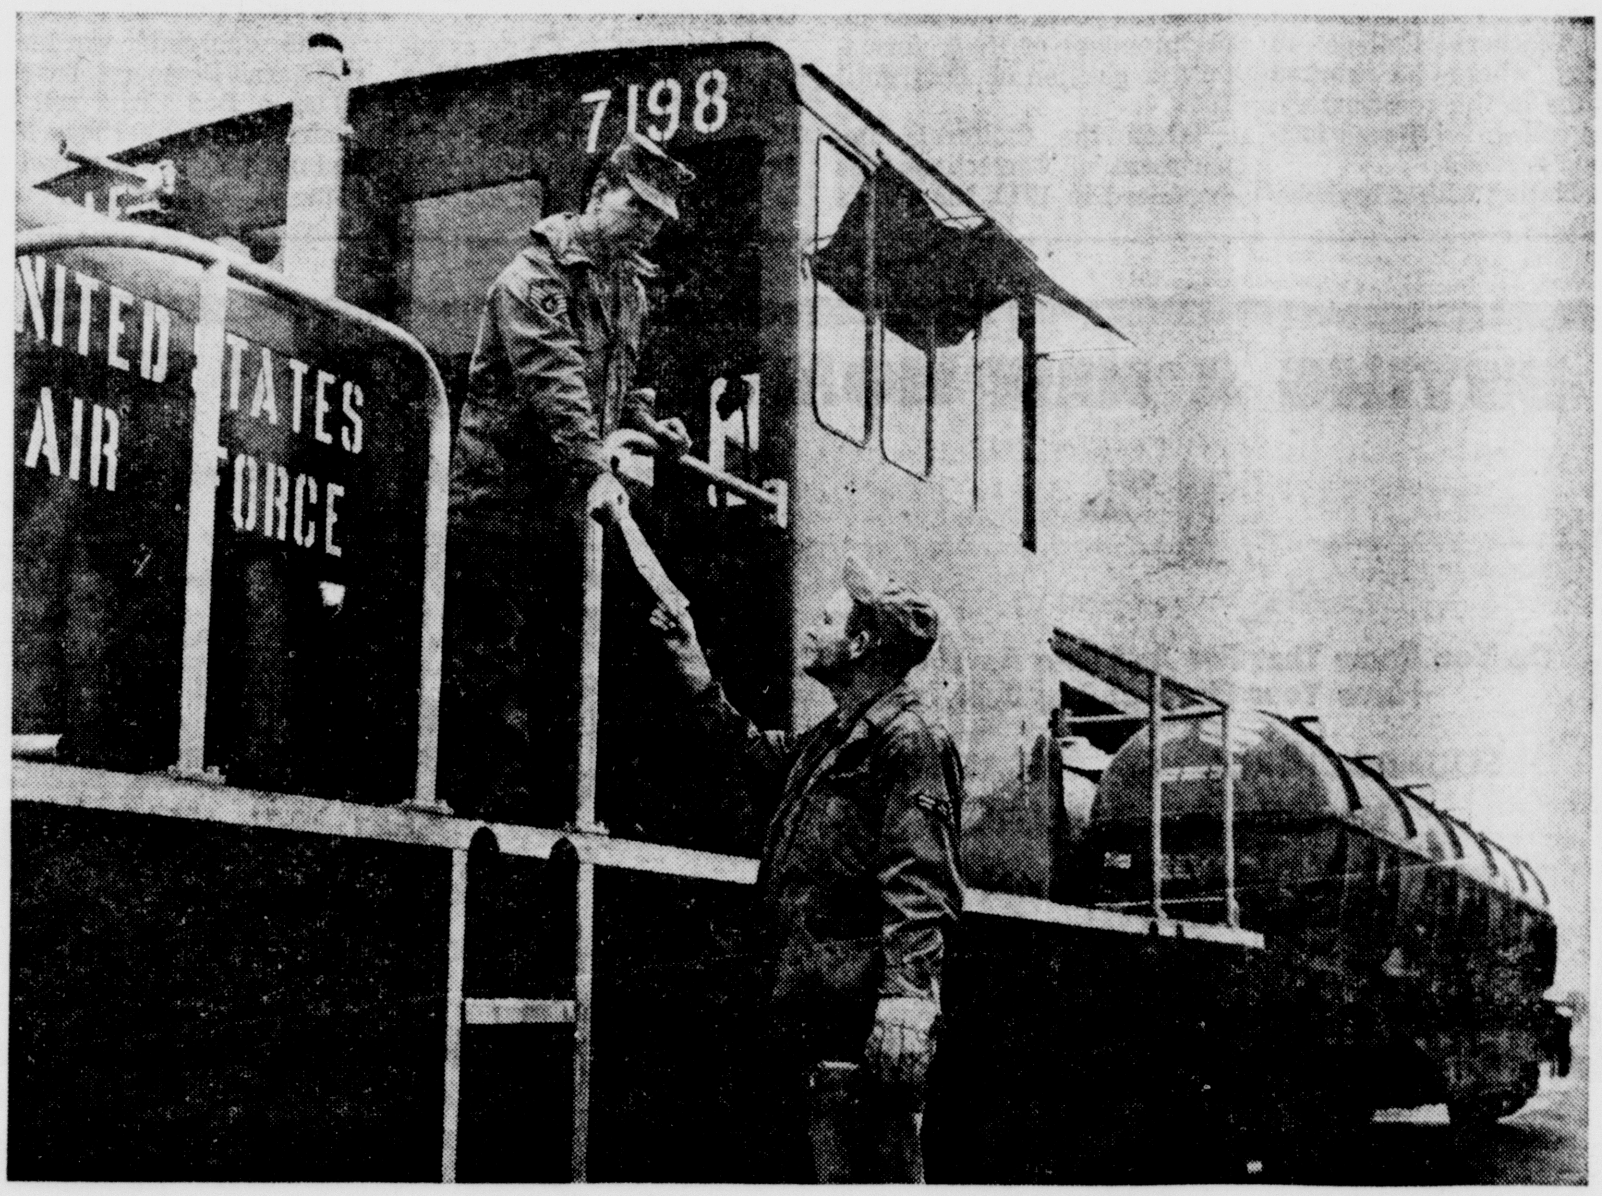

DURING ITS early years at Hamilton the little diesel saw many long hours of service. Picking up freight cars from the interchange and shunting them to the various areas of the base where they were off loaded. At that time, both the base commissary and the fuel storage area saw "7198" daily as it brought the vital supplies for human and aircraft consumption to their respective areas. Now the foodstuffs arrive via road transport and the fuel is supplied via barges and fuel pipelines.

Since that time the workload of the diesel has been reduced as has the manpower necessary to do the job. Its mission now is the handling of general Air Force freight, heavy equipment, household goods, oil and lubricants, etc., in support of the base's overall Air Defense mission. Over 50 tons of goods are hauled over the three and one-half miles of track from the interchange to the various base warehouses. During the course of a run to the interchange, the little engine travels over 12 road crossings on the base.

Operating costs of "7198" are actually quite economical. It uses about 50 gallons of diesel fuel per month at a cost of approximately 13 cents per gallon or $6.50 per month for fuel. During its annual maintenance inspection and repair overhaul for 1960 by an Army maintenance team, the total cost of labor and parts for the job amounted to only $306.80. Considering the five to 10 miles daily the locomotive is in use, shunting and going to and from the interchange, and the 50 tons of freight pulled around the base to the warehouses, the little diesel more than earns its keep.

IN ITS MORE than 10 years service here at Hamilton "7198" has never been involved in an accident at a level crossing or elsewhere on base. This is indicative of the safety consciousness and dedication of the men who crew the vehicle.

Although the Hamilton Air Force Base Railroad is probably the smallest in the United States Air Force, its job is a big one for this Air Defense Command Base. The next time you see "7198" puffing around the base at its 10 to 12 miles per hour, remember that it's doing a big job on the little railroad for a big cause.

A Bonsai Expert Tells You How

One Of Marin's Leading Authorities On This Old Oriental Art Shares His Experience With You

(Editor's Note: Roy Wendelken of Novato, one of Marin's most active and most knowledgeable bonsai enthusiasts, tells you here in detail just how to go about growing these artistic little trees. You will want to save these instructions so that you, too, can join in a hobby which has attracted more and more Marinites.)

By ROY H. WENDELKEN

It can be said that the technique used in growing bonsai is directly opposite to the usual procedure of growing most garden plants. The avid gardener will usually try to force his plants to produce show-winning quality bloom or foliage.

In bonsai culture, control is the essence of the art of growing a miniature tree that gives the viewer the feeling of looking at a forest giant. Technically, nature follows certain laws of order, even though at times they appear to be contradictory. But when the methods of control violate the laws of nature, the plant will either die, or it will follow the dictates of its inclination to grow to natural size.

Therefore, the bonsai grower must be in harmonious partnership with nature.

First and foremost are the horticultural duties requisite to a healthy growing tree. To understand the fundamentals pertinent to raising plants in containers entails a wide scope of knowledge of how a plant lives and grows, and of all the necessary components for the plant to exist. This part of the two phases of bonsai leads to technical and scientific analysis.

THE OTHER part, the artistic side, cannot be analyzed or explained. The dedicated bonsai grower can show you how to train and shape a tree to look natural, but he cannot tell you why or where he got the "know-how."

The scientific or technical part of bonsai would probably start with soil, since this is the most vital component in the life of any plant. The range of plants used for bonsai cover conditions from the most arid to the wet and swampy. Therefore a study of the soils of all these varied regions to evaluate that type which is best for a particular tree is essential to success with bonsai.

Of the various chores concerned with bonsai, watering is the most often performed. This task is seldom given any thought by the average gardener. But from a technical standpoint, water is much more than giving a drink to the plant. It has been said that it takes three years to learn how to water bonsai for the best results.

THE TECHNIQUES of raising bonsai have philosophical values along with the fundamentals. And it is this philosophical aspect which gives bonsai its true worth. In working with bonsai, it is not what we do that counts but what the bonsai does to us. As a man thinks, so will he do. It is to be sure that one's personality will be reflected in his bonsai.

Control has been mentioned as the essential requisite in the successful culture of bonsai. To grow a miniature tree only one to two feet high, that would be a giant 100 to 200 feet in natural conditions, requires every effort of control in all the factors in the growth of plants.

First, the tree must be maintained in perfect health. Any withholding of water and nutritive elements to stunt a tree is the worst possible practice. Good health is controlled by the natural conditions suitable for the tree. A watering schedule is maintained, according to weather conditions. When we have high temperatures and wind, they may need water one to three or four times a day. With lower temperature and no wind, they may not need water for a day or two at a time. And in rainy weather they need no attention, except that prolonged heavy rain may cause the soil to be washed out of the container, in which case they should be protected.

ROY WENDELKEN of Novato, author of this article, is recognized by Marin bonsai enthusiasts as one of their most active and best informed members.

TREES GROWING in the lower elevations along rivers or lakes and most deciduous trees will need water oftener than those which grow at high elevations and in other dry and arid areas. This fact necessitates that one should know where each tree grows and the natural conditions in that area.

By way of illustration, Western Juniper and the Pinon Pine grow in the semi-desert regions of our southwestern states, so they would need a minimum of water. Birches, Maples and Beech grow in the northern states in valleys in moist areas or near sources of water. These trees are usually watered to keep the soil moist at all times.

With all this in mind, it is apparent one cannot set an exact schedule for watering. It all depends on the kind and types of soil used, the location of the plant, whether it is in the full sun and wind, or is protected from these elements, and its size and stage of growth. The season as well as the elements enter into the picture, too. In the spring and early summer when the new growth is coming out, I keep the watering schedule at a minimum, so as not to cause any excessive and spindly growth.

Most of our city water supplies have chlorine and chemicals added which are detrimental to certain kinds of trees. Well water is preferable, but if not available, a large tub or barrel in which the city water can stand for a day or two will dissipate the chemicals.

IN CONJUNCTION with watering, a daily spraying of the foliage with a fine mist (I use a fogging nozzle) washes dust and dirt from the leaves and keeps insects at a minimum. It is best to do this very early in the morning or after sunset.

It has been said that "nature seldom gives us the very best, for that we must have recourse to art," and so it is with our soil. We must understand that soil is one of the most complex components of the earth.

First of all, soil is much more than a mixture of sand, clay and organic matter. It is teeming with living matter and is continual host to thousands of chemical and biological reactions. Living forms rise from the soil and return to it. All life depends on these chemical and physical processes of unending repetition.

The amount of available plant nutrients in soils, and the amounts required by plants are both very important. Many processes that go on in the soil diminish or increase the supply of nutrients, as does their removal by plants or addition as fertilizers.

The structure of the soil and its water relations are as vital to productivity as nutrients are. Structure has to do with the size and shape of the particles of the various components including sand, clay, silt, and the loam with its organic or humus content. In common terms, structure of soil is called tilth and soil in good tilth has granular structure. This is the secret of perfect drainage and every potted plant must have it. This is why adobe or any other fine and sticky types of clay should never be used.

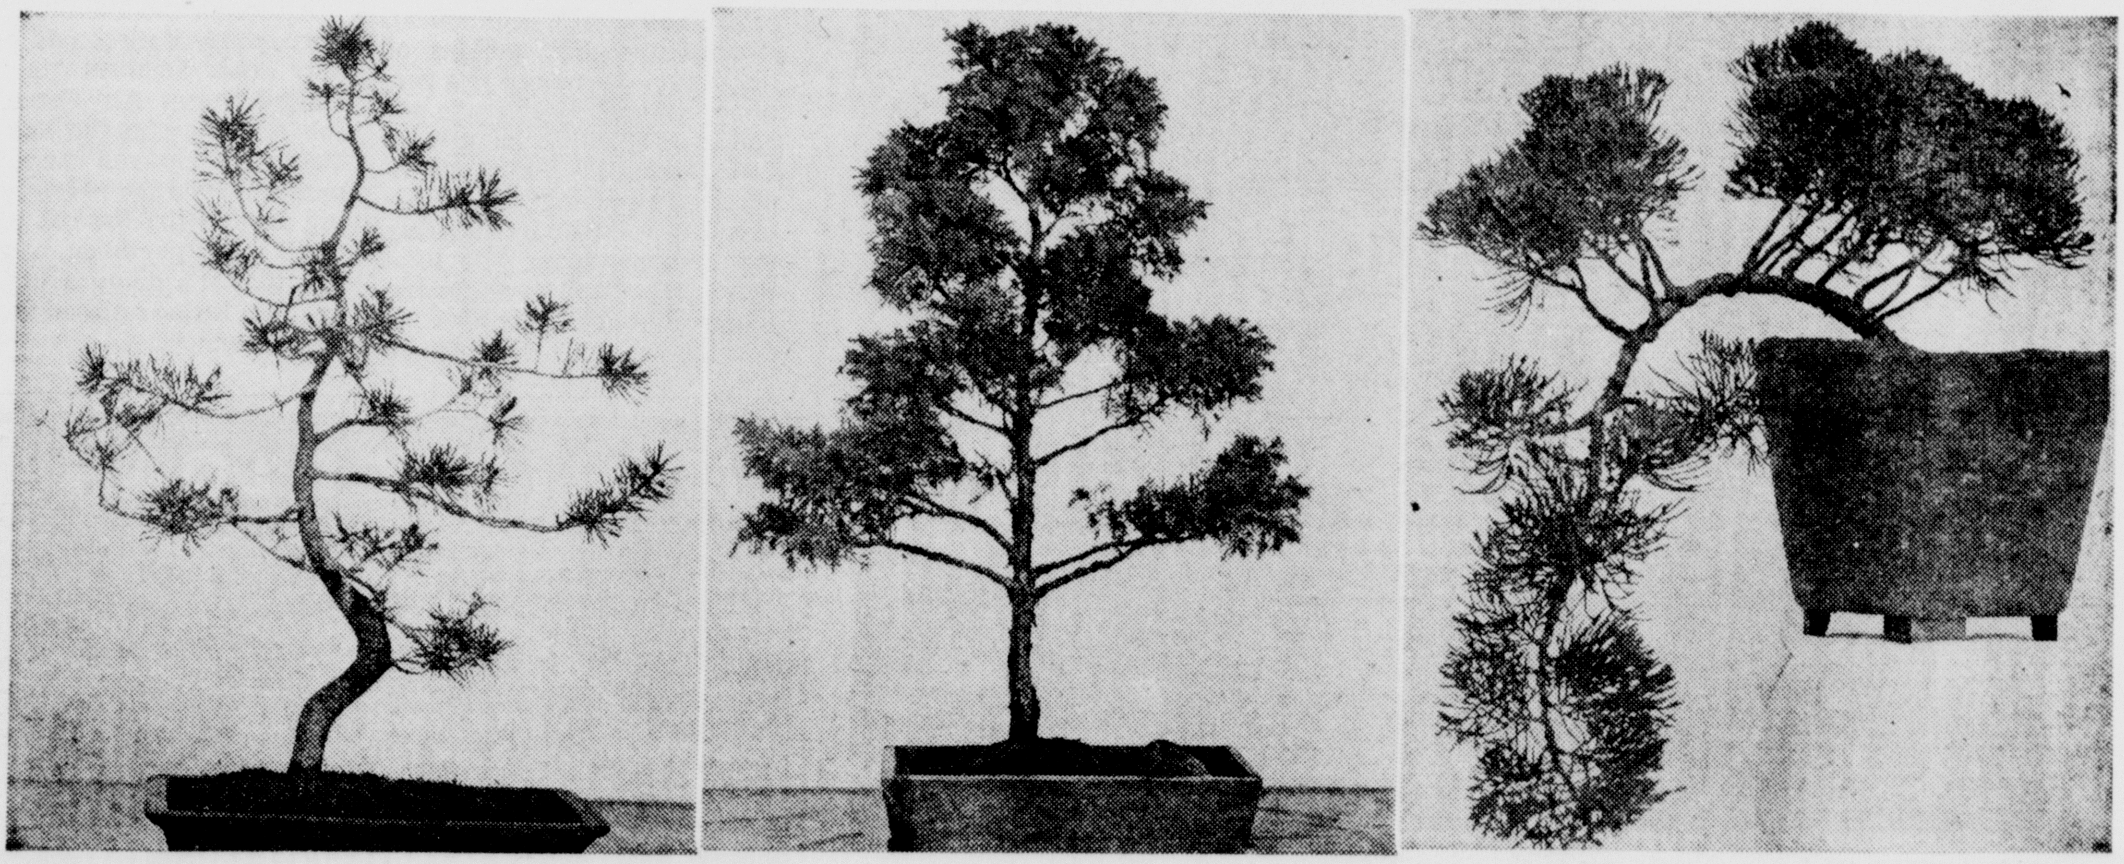

COLOR IS the most obvious characteristic of any soil and indicates many important things. Black soils are rich in humus, the staple product of decomposed organic matter. The soil from forested regions usually is excessively acid, but the black soil of open grasslands, not having been under cultivation, is only slightly acid and would be the best for potted plants or bonsai. Deep brown soils of open areas have rich color, indicating one of the best types wherever available. The red soils seen in our mountain areas is a developed soil usually of volcanic origin and has broken down and formed under excellent drainage. It has the highest iron content of any soil, and iron is needed by all plants. Yellow soils are also formed under good drainage, and, like all light colored soils anywhere are very low in fertility, since they usually are mostly mineral matter. These yellow soils have the second highest content of iron.

Sand is of course all mineral, and like the red or yellow soils is very close to neutral in acidity.

Most gardeners take soil for granted. And bonsai will grow in many kinds of soil for a period of years. But in the end, results will be disappointing unless the kind and type of soil is controlled. If the soil is rich in humus and nutrients, growth will be fast and spindly; if it stays wet and soggy, the plant eventually will die. If the soil is tight and compacted, water and air cannot enter, and again the plant will die.

AS MENTIONED previously, watering bonsai is more than providing a drink to the plant. Soil must be damp to provide correct temperature and suitable conditions for healthy growth of microorganisms and soil bacteria. Water relations between the

THERE ARE, according to bonsai expert Roy Wendelken of Novato, five main kinds of bonsai trees — the cascade, the semi-cascade, the windblown, the formal upright and the informal upright. Examples of informal upright, left, formal upright, center, and cascade, right, can be seen above. Examples of the other two kinds appear on the facing page. (Independent-Journal photos.)

BONSAI FOR BEGINNERS

Combine Gardening With The Artistic

plant and the soil is directly affected by the porosity of the soil structure. Water and air occupy the soil pores in reciprocally varying amounts. And the amount and the composition of soil air have important direct and indirect effects on the growth of plants. Soil air differs from the atmosphere in that it contains 10 to 100 times as much carbon dioxide and slightly less oxygen.

Roots of plants and the soil bacteria require oxygen for normal respiratory functions. Therefore the carbon dioxide must be diffused out of the soil thru the pores. This again is why compacted types of clay and adobe should never be used. An accumulation of carbon dioxide around the roots is toxic and neither water nor nutrients can be absorbed. In most cases, excessive amounts of fresh organic material in the soil causes excess amounts of carbon dioxide. Root cells must be alive and active to absorb water and nutrients. If the oxygen supply is deficient, the root cells will become asphyxiated. Normal conditions for the plant exists when the soil has good structure and porosity, and maintains a steady supply of nutrients and moisture.

All soils have varying amounts of extra fine particles which hinders porosity and drainage. So the conscientious bonsai grower sifts all soil used. It is put thru a one-eighth size screen, discarding any stones or other debris. Then it is put into a 24 to 30 mesh screen and the sifted "fines" are discarded. Some of the fines of the black soil can be used as a thin topping on the soil of the potted bonsai to help promote the growth of moss.

Soil varies widely in acidity and alkalinity and plants also vary widely in their tolerance of either of these conditions. Most black organic soils are excessively acid and lack calcium and magnesium, which are essential to all plants. Soil bacteria and the micro-organisms necessary to convert nutrients to a form available to a plant, can thrive only when the P.H. factor is between six and eight. Seven is neutral. Above seven is alkaline and below seven is acid. Most plants grow the best when the P.H. factor is 6.5 And soils with this factor have the best tilth and crumb structure.

SINCE THE majority of bonsai are conifers, most of them are slow growing and need the least organic material in the soil mix. It will be noted that conifers grown in natural conditions are found in areas with sandy, gravelly, or clay soils of poor quality. So it is with this in mind that I use a soil mix of three parts sand, four parts yellow or red loamy clay and three parts black loam.

For deciduous trees, use a mix of two parts sand, two parts yellow loamy clay and six parts black loam. The soils are sifted as previously noted. In these lean soil mixes, trees will grow at a slower rate but will still maintain good health with a controlled schedule of fertilization. Since bonsai are never fed to promote growth, with the possible exception of young seedlings or trees with skimpy foliage, a combination of various organic meals is used.

Specifically it is three parts cottonseed meal, two parts fish meal, three parts Soya bean meal, one part single strength super-phosphate, one part wood ash. This mix is fed twice a year in the spring and again in the fall to sustain the regular growth cycles. One or two teaspooons buried in the soil around the tree is given at each feeding, the smaller amount for young or small bonsai and the larger amount for older or large trees. In summer months a liquid feeding is given once a week.

One part of the meals is fermented for two to three weeks in 10 parts water. The clear liquid is further diluted one part to 10 to 20 parts water and used for the weekly feeding. This weak weekly feeding is necessary because with a regular watering schedule, most of the nutrients are leached from the container. Some bonsai growers use a commercial fish emulsion exclusively, but I do not think it furnishes all the elements plants in containers need.

INSECTS ARE facts of life and all gardeners have their fair share. To follow the old saying of "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" is the easiest way around this problem. Mites and scale are the culprits that give me trouble, but three sprayings in May and again in September with commercial insecticides are the cure.

When bonsai grow unwanted shoots or foliage which spoil the form desired, it is time to prune and pinch. We prune branches to shorten their length for symmetry or to balance the top to the amount of roots, to thin dense growth, to change direction of a branch, to remove dead or diseased parts and to control fruit, berries or flowers. In general, pruning is used to hold plants within bounds, for shaping them roughly, and for keeping them well groomed. Pinching out new growth is done to keep a desired shape or to promote a multiplicity of new growth in the case of a tree being trained as a bonsai.

Pines are pruned in late winter or early spring and new growth pinched in late spring or early summer.

Deciduous trees are pruned in late winter to the shape desired and pinched throughout the growing season to promote twiggy growth. Every shoot is cut back to only one or two leaves again and again throughout the season.

Flowering and berried plants are trimmed after they finish blooming. Exceptions are crape myrtle, privet, Jasmine and pomegranite which produce flowers on new shoots, so these are trimmed in early spring. One of the cardinal rules of bonsai culture lies in maintaining a constant balance between the top of the plant and its roots.

THESE TREES from Roy Wendelken's large bonsai collection are excellent examples of two of the main types of tiny trees—the semi-cascade, at top, and the windblown in the lower photo. (Independent-Journal photos)

TRAINING BONSAI to a desired form in the old traditional styles was accomplished entirely by pruning and took many long years. The modern trend in saving time is accomplished by using copper wire and coiling it spirally around the trunk or branches and bending to the desired shape.

First a study is made to decide the style and final shape. The first rule of art, "the material defines the form," usually is suggested by the tree itself. When the trunk is to be changed, it is always wired first. In no case should any wire be so tight that it will constrict the growth of the tree.

Next, the branches are wired starting with the lowest and successively working to the top. With the modern methods of wiring to shape, it is never desirable to truss up a tree into octopus or pretzel shapes. Branches should not be twisted or bent unnaturally. The best form is nature's form. And wiring should not be done when the tree has new buds and shoots which can easily be broken or knocked off and lost.

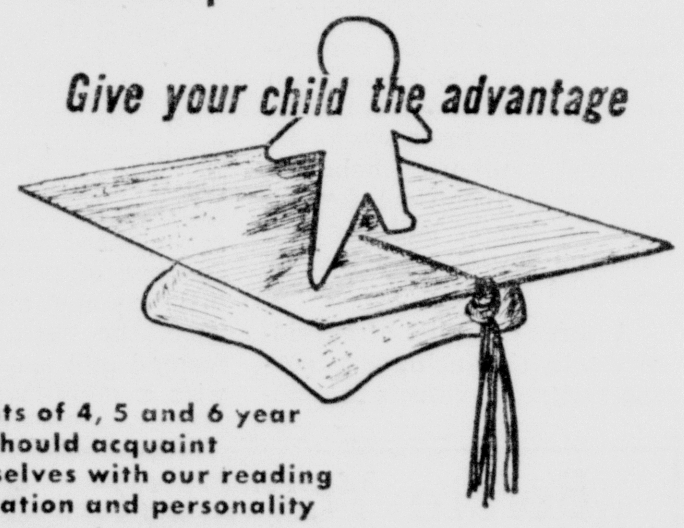

Deciduous trees are wired through the summer after the leaves have their full size. Conifers are usually wired through the fall and winter months. Wire should be removed at such time as the tree grows and before the wire starts to cut into the bark. On younger and fast growing trees wires are removed after one to three months, and older trees and conifers, in eight to 12 months.

Most potted plants will gradually lose their vitality,

SERVING AS editor-narrator and director-actor, respectively, in the next Festival Theater production at San Anselmo are Marjorie Casebier and Robert Cowell, in conference here. The unique program entitled "An Evening With Festival Theater" will consist of readings, acted scenes and discussions. Performances are scheduled for the evenings of Feb. 11 and 25, and the afternoons of Feb. 12 and 26.

THE NEW Festival Theater production will include scenes from a variety of works performed, and then discussed, by the theater's professional staff and cast members. Here Elizabeth Donald of Ross and William Livingston, of San Francisco Theological Seminary, watch with interest a rehearsal of a humorous Straw Hat blackout entitled "Order of the Day" with Festival Theater staffers Elizabeth Fuller and Louis Bennett on stage.

Festival Theater — A Dream Come True

In the autumn of 1957, five actors met in a small studio in Berkeley with some 40 individuals who had come to learn what the Straw Hatters had been doing with themselves since the last performance of the delightful Straw Hat Revues which had earned them national recognition and affection. In the two hours that followed, the idea of a new theater — Festival Theater, one of recurring celebration—was brought to life in an illustrated discussion performed and read by the five Straw Hatters.

The dream for the new theater found its shape in a 100-page brochure which documented more than a year's research by Elizabeth Berryhill, Carol Brumm and Robert Beck. It outlined an ambitious project: A living theater to be staffed by professional theater artists who, while earning their subsistence, would work with gifted amateurs from the community; a playwright's workshop to supply the acting company with new dramatic works by regional authors; balanced seasons of theatrical fare; a suitable theater building in a "natural setting of actual or potential beauty."

A three-page list of subsidiary activities included a touring program, projects in radio and TV, children's theater, allied arts and religious drama.

What was needed to make the dream come true? People, plays, a building, money, a great deal of hard work, and time. That evening the dream began to come true as interested people pledged money, labor and time to the idea of Festival Theater.

What has happened to the dream? Festival Theater now exists as a non-profit corporation operating in San Anselmo. A large group of gifted amateurs from the entire Bay Area participate in every phase of production on an avocational basis. Regional playwrights have supplied Festival Theater with scripts (and musical scores) for six past productions and new works are in progress. In its balanced theatrical fare, Festival Theater has presented a variety of contemporary and classic works.

Festival Theater has at last found a home in a "natural setting of actual beauty." The San Francisco Theological Seminary has made available the rustic redwood "gym" located on its campus. In a miracle of hard work by a devoted crew of people with very little money and even less time, the "gym" was transformed into a unique theater with a multi-level open platform stage designed by Tom Borden. The audience has been accommodated in a "not-quite-semi-circle" around the stage on a riser system that makes for enjoyable attendance from any seat. Dressing rooms, storage space, costume and scene workshops, offices, and a lobby and snack-bar have been created by the judicious use of fireproof draperies and scenery flats.

A central heating plant, installed last month, provides warmth in the winter and a cooling system for Marin's warm summers.

And what of the plays Festival Theater dreamed of producing?

The past three and a half years have seen a remarkable variety of Festival Theater productions. An account of subsidiary activities would include three state and Bay Area tours and several "side-trips" with an original lecture dramatization by Robert Beck in tandem with Thornton Wilder's one-act play, "The Happy Journey." Two tours helped to realize the theater's religious drama project: "The Cup of Trembling," by Elizabeth Berryhill, and her short satiric revue on the subject of stewardship, "Many Are Called, But Few Get Up!"

A half-hour radio drama by Berkeley playwright and poet James Schevill was presented by Festival Theater on KPFA-FM. An original musical for children with music by San Franciscan Richard Meder capped a summer program of theater and dance classes for children in Berkeley and El Cerrito.

In addition to the extensive use of music in its major productions, Festival Theater has presented a series of concerts preceded by an informal supper.

Among Festival Theater's major productions have been "Lost In the Stars," the Maxwell Anderson-Kurt Weill music-drama which played to more than 8,000 people. George Kelly's farce, "The Torch-Bearers," a lampoon of way-off-Broadway little theater, brought the professional staff together on stage to enjoy with the audiences a good laugh at themselves. A new play by James Schevill was presented for the University of California's extension division's San Francisco "renaissance week end" of drama.

Special mention is due Elizabeth Berryhill's play, "The Cup of Trembling," which won the 1960 James Phelan first place award for drama.

All of this brings Festival Theater up to date in Marin County, where last summer the group came full circle by producing a Straw Hat Review of Revues, "The Face Is Familiar." The company rollicked through the mildly satiric spoof of contemporary manners and morals in a show which delighted youngsters from 6 to 60.

Thornton Wilder provided the Festival Theater with its current production, "The Skin of Our Teeth," a comic burlesque of civilization. The Wilder drama is being performed on Friday evenings only in February.

And so, in three and a half years, Festival Theater has grown from a dream spelled out in a mimeographed document into a living reality: A professionally staffed regional community theater housed in a contemporary playhouse in the heart of Marin County.

What does the future hold for Festival Theater in Marin?

The immediate future offers an exciting new production which will open next Saturday evening at 8:30. "An Evening with Festival Theater" is a lecture-dramatization of scenes from plays and works of literature acted and discussed by the cast with Marjorie Casebier, narrator and editor. Robert Cowell directs the production, which includes scenes from "The Crucible" and "The Death of a Salesman," by Arthur Miller; "The Lady's Not For Burning," by Christopher Fry; "Long Day's Journey Into Night," by Eugene O'Neill; "Awake and Sing!" and "The Flowering Peach," by Clifford Odets. These scenes and moments from others will be acted by Festival Theater staff Elizabeth Fuller, Louis Bennett, Robert Cowell and Carol Brumm with Elizabeth Donald of Ross and William Livingston of San Anselmo.

"An Evening with Festival Theater" is designed to explore some of the many ways drama illuminates the meaning of human life, to introduce Festival Theater to its Marin County neighbors, and to invite their financial support.

"An Evening with . . ." will be performed next Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and on the following afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Theater on the campus of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. The program will be repeated at the same times on Feb. 25 and Feb. 26. There is no admission charge and the hat will not be passed. However, individuals and organizations will be invited to participate in the theater's activities by becoming sponsors or financial backers.

Part of the dream of the new theater has been realized. How much can be accomplished in the future, what new dreams may come true, depends again on people, plays, money, hard work and time.

How Reed Teaches Its Pupils

The Reed Union School District has a long history of close cooperation between the schools and the community.

The latest example of that cooperation can be found in two displays of student-learning that are currently going up on the Belvedere Boardwalk and at the Bel Aire Shopping Center.

The displays are a project of the Reed Union District Teachers' Assn., designed to show parents and other residents some of the concepts and methods of present-day education. And it is typical of the close ties between the schools and community that the teachers called upon a number of private citizens for help with their project—and received their wholehearted cooperation.

The construction of the display cases, the planning of the displays and the other aspects of the new program have meant hours of time for both the teachers and their friends in the community.

THE PROJECT was originally conceived in the spring of 1960 by the public relations committee of the Reed District Teachers Assn. The committee, headed by Mrs. Nancy Cook, a teacher at Reed School, planned with Matt Krier, the public relations consultant of the Bay Area section of the California Teachers Assn., a display for the Boardwalk shopping area. Plans, however, fell through because of the expense involved.

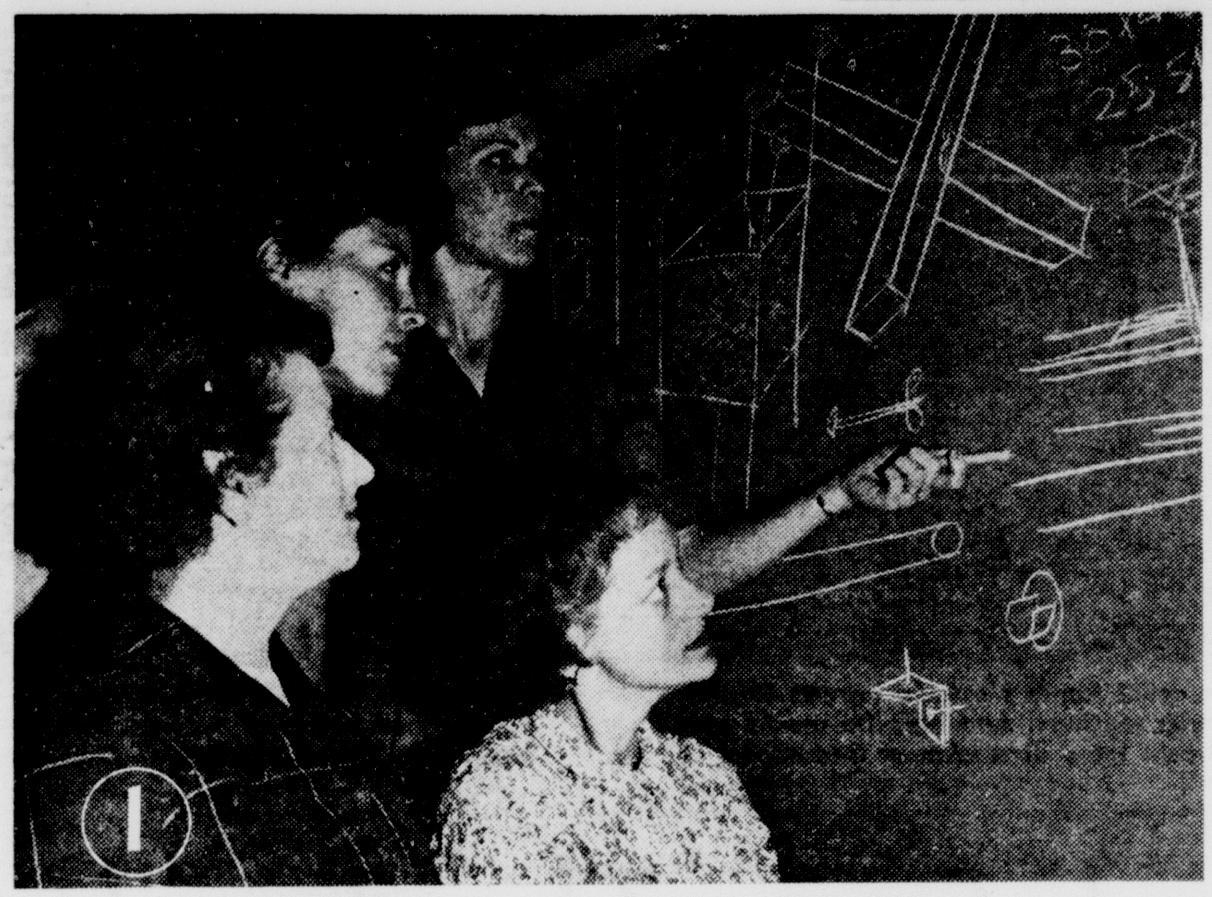

This fall the teachers sought community help.

Mrs. Kay DeBrecht, the school nurse, is this year's chairman of the teachers' committee involved. Working with her are Miss Wanda Case, first grade teacher at Bel Aire; Mrs. Dottie Hanssen, second grade teacher at Bel Aire, and Don Cowan, fifth grade teacher at Reed.

George Gregg, materials center director for the Reed District, acted as consultant to the committee. Jack Bridgman, of McCann-Ericson advertising agency and a parent in the community who once served as school board chairman, was also consulted.

J. Don Rubke, manager of the Brice Brothers Market in Bel Aire, offered to construct the display case to hang outside his store. The Belvedere branch of the Marin County Library agreed to house the second display case. Jack Moran of Tiburon Lumber Co. volunteered the lumber. And Roy Hare and Taylor Bedilion, two Tiburon parents, offered to build the frame for the library display. Peder Thorsfeldt painted it with materials

THE PLAN for displays demonstrating the teaching techniques utilized in the Reed Union School District, for the edification of the community, began with this group last spring as the public relations committee of the Reed District Teachers Assn. At one of their planning meetings are, left to right, Ruth Danforth, Aloria Bryant, committee chairman Nancy Cook and Ruth Danforth.

THIS FALL A NEW committee of teachers took over the project and carried it to completion. Discussing background material for the displays at a committee meeting are Dottie Hanssen, materials center director George Gregg, committee chairman Kay DeBrecht and Wanda Case. The teachers then called upon residents of the Tiburon Peninsula to help them bring the project to a successful conclusion, and for what happened then, see pictures on Pages M-12 and M-13.

ADVERTISING AGENCY layout artist James Marlowe agreed to plan the displays for the Reed District teachers. And here he meets with committee chairman Kay DeBrecht for a discussion of that aspect of the project.

A Report From The Teachers supplied by David Allen of the Belvedere Land Improvement Co.

The photographs which will set the theme of each display are the work of a Belvedere portrait photographer, Rita Graves. Display layouts have been organized by James Marlowe, layout artist for McCann-Ericson.

MANY OTHER members of the community have also played a part in the project.

Such snowballing cooperation is an old story for the Tiburon Peninsula. From its very beginning the community has been dedicated to providing encouragement, space, funds and labor for a wide variety of school-centered projects.

School assemblies, parties and graduations were housed in the yacht clubs and in the recreation center in years before the schools had auditoriums or multi-purpose rooms.

When there was a shortage of classroom space, churches and community halls served the purpose.

Funds for teaching aids and equipment came from the community privately, and from an active parent club organization.

Landscaping of the grounds for all four schools was underwritten by the parent groups when the school budget couldn't be stretched to cover such work.

The parents' club printed and sold a local history, "Shark Point-High Point," compiled and written by the eighth graders with encouragement and assistance from members of the community knowledgeable on the subject. The historical collection in the local library is largely the result of that writing project.

THUS IT WAS natural that the teachers went to the community with their current project, confident that resources and talents would be volunteered.

"It has never mattered whether they have children in the district or have children at all," comments Mrs. DeBrecht. "If it's for the community good, they are for it!"

There has been plenty of work left over, however, for the teachers themselves. They devoted hours of their time to the selection of the topics which will be presented to parents and the interested public through the new display cases.

Countless examples of classwork were examined to select samples that best served the purpose. Neither the best nor the worst of class work was chosen. Emphasis was upon a selection of papers that would best show a technique that would help a pupil to learn.

Teachers' corrections are sometimes included because learning often comes from this correction of errors.

The teachers found the limitation by space to be a severe one.

WHAT, FOR instance, can be shown in science unless it is three-dimensional? First grade arithmetic is taught so often with concrete objects—things that can be handled. Could this be shown on a sheet of paper? Music and art are so much seeing and feeling the world as it is about us. Could parents be told what is being done and learned in these fields in a small display area?

In spite of these limitations, the teachers accepted the challenge and are determined to tell the community as much as possible about how they are teaching the citizens of the future. And about the tools they are trying to develop.

The initial display is from the first grades and demonstrates some of the teaching concepts in arithmetic.

Second graders will deal with the subject of science—"What is my world?" Their work will seek to show some of the clues teachers use to develop the skills of observation and systematic interrelating of direct experience and demonstrable fact and order.

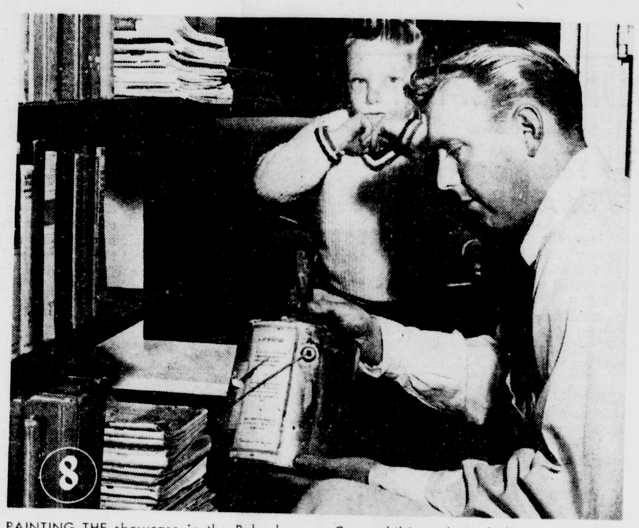

Third graders learn to write in cursive script instead of the manuscript which does not need as precise muscular control. Penmanship will be the subject of their display.

FOURTH AND fifth graders were included in a joint display. Their theme will be "Where in the world are we?"—a look into the study of the social sciences.

The sixth grade display will feature teaching methods in the language of the arts and music. Seventh and eighth graders will be concerned with the teaching of communication, which includes, but goes beyond, the basic skills of reading and writing.

There is no way of relating the countless hours spent in consulting and in catching up the loose ends, in overcoming the unforeseen obstacles as they appeared suddenly in the path of completion of the project.

The fact that these hurdles were finally cleared speaks, the teachers say, for the wholehearted support they have received from the people of the Reed District.

PAINTING THE showcase in the Belvedere library on the boardwalk is Jack Thorsfeldt of Peder Thorsfeldt Painters. Young Scott Cowan kibitzes through the glass. Roy Hare and Taylor Bedilion had similarly donated their services in constructing the case.

LUMBER FOR ONE of the two showcases was donated by the Tiburon Lumber Co. Here teacher Wanda Case picks up some from Jack Moran, manager of the lumber concern, on behalf of her committee.

REED SCHOOL sixth grade teacher Donald Cowan shows one of his students, Tracy Brash, the pattern that he is to copy for a mosaic while Wanda Case looks on. The sixth grade display will deal with art and music.

MATERIALS CENTER director George Gregg looks over some samples of work of the first graders as the actual selection of the pieces to be displayed gets under way. The first graders are featured in the initial exhibits on both bulletin boards.

ADMIRING THE NEW bulletin board at the Belvedere library which Reed Union School District teachers will use to inform the community on the district's teaching techniques are second grade instructor Dorothy Hanssen, left, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Norman and their three children, Mori, Paul and Paula of the Bel Aire School. A second showcase is located at the Bel Aire Shopping Center. (Independent-Journal photo)

Fresh New Television Series Is Brainchild Of A Young Marinite

ORDINARILY we leave the television front to our colleague, Hal Case. A few days ago, however, we did attend a press conference called by KPIX-TV to outline what, according to the station, is a "half million-dollar" shot in the arm for its early evening programming.

As is their duty, the publicity people waxed enthusiastically about the new shows in store for Channel 5 viewers when a new program line-up goes into effect Feb. 13.

To us, most of the "new" stuff sounded pretty much old hat—cartoons, adventure series, an added newscaster and a cowboy host for a children's show.

There was, however, one new show which, as outlined, struck a responsive chord in us. The idea is a fresh one, the aim worthy. And indications are that it has been carried out with considerable energy and imagination.

WE REFER TO a show called "Career."

The purpose is to evaluate opportunities in specific careers for young people. But what is certain to make it of interest to more than just these young people is the caliber of successful persons who have been picked to pass along advice on their professions. To name a few: Adlai E. Stevenson on public service; Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg on science; Cornelia Otis Skinner on the theater; Dr. Margaret Mead on "marriage and a career," Dr. Wallace Sterling on education, and Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer on military service.

The format calls for a panel of five Stanford University students to question one of the outstanding personalities each week on the requirements and rewards of his chosen field.

Aside from the obvious merits of such a program, our special attention was also directed to the series by the discovery that the man responsible for the idea is a 25-year-old Marin product.

He is John E. Upston, administrative assistant at the Mental Research Institute of the Palo Alto Medical Research Foundation and the son of Mrs. John E. Upston of 210 Laurel Grove Avenue, Kentfield.

JOHN E. UPSTON
The idea was his

The young producer is the son of the late Maj. Gen. John E. Upston, commanding general of the Fourth Air Force at Hamilton Air Force Base from 1948-50.

YOUNG UPSTON attended Virginia Military Institute and Harvard University as well as Stanford. He has been associated with public service television since his graduation from Stanford in 1958.

Now Upston bears the title of co-producer of the TV show he created, with the specific duties of arranging for the guest personalities. The "names" we mentioned previously speak well of the manner in which he has carried out those duties.

His co-producer of "Career" is Stanley Donner, director of radio and television at Stanford.

The new show will make its debut Feb. 14 at 7:30 p.m. and KPIX is to be complimented for assigning the public service program to prime evening viewing time. Marinites of all ages would be wise to dial Channel 5 for the show. The great Americans who will appear are certain to drop pearls of wisdom that will be of value to all of us.

BOOK REVIEW

Story Of Woman's Victory Over Odds

ELENA by Elena Zelayeta, Prentice-Hall Inc., 246 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Elizabeth Kibbee.

Elena is a solidly built, middle-aged lady who is blind. If this sounds unprepossessing, consider that she has, since becoming blind: Reared two children, learned all over again to cook and keep house, taught hundreds of other people both blind and sighted to cook, and written four books, this being the latest.

She was born in Mexico of Spanish parents, who brought her to San Francisco when she was a child. She tells of growing up in a warm-hearted household, of youthful conflict with her old-world father, of beaus (papa disapproved of them all), of jobs she held, and finally of meeting and marrying Lorenzo Zelayeta.

I found it surprising to learn that Elena, at whose table I have eaten and whose recipes can only be described as heavenly, taught herself to cook after she was married. This she did so well that she and her husband opened a Mexican restaurant in San Francisco. Then her sight failed. The restaurant closed, heavily in debt; the Zelayetas' second child was born, and the depression was at its height.

This, then, is the story of her fight back from helplessness and despair. She found it hard to believe, at first, that she was needed—by her family, by other blind people, by friends, and finally by readers of her excellent cookbooks.

"Elena" is not writer's writing, which, oddly, is part of its charm. It's a warm-hearted, enthusiastic, energetic woman who, having shared her recipes with the reader, now candidly shares her life story.

"Why Are My Window Curtains Stained Brown?"—Mrs. E. R. K.

Dear Mrs. E. R. K.:

This staining occurs frequently in window curtains. Analysis has shown that such staining results from the edge of the curtain absorbing rain water when it comes in contact with a wet window sill. It also happens when the curtain picks up rain from being blown against a wet window screen. Similar staining has also been noted when curtains or drapes hang close to hot air heating outlets.

Staining such as this may be removed by laundering if it hasn't been exposed too long. In this case, the fabric itself may be damaged where the stain occurs.

Sunlight, of course, is the greatest destroyer of curtains and drapes. Recently, the American Institute of Laundering tested cotton window curtains. Such curtains exposed to sunlight continuously for nine months behind glass in windows facing south, lost an almost incredible amount of strength. In most cases, the light radiation damage was confined to the lower edges of the curtain, below the areas shielded by the window shades. The damage to the curtains occurred while the curtains were in use, although it did not show until they were laundered. Only glass-fiber curtains withstand this damage. All other fabrics are weakened and eventually destroyed by light radiation.

STEREO HI-FI

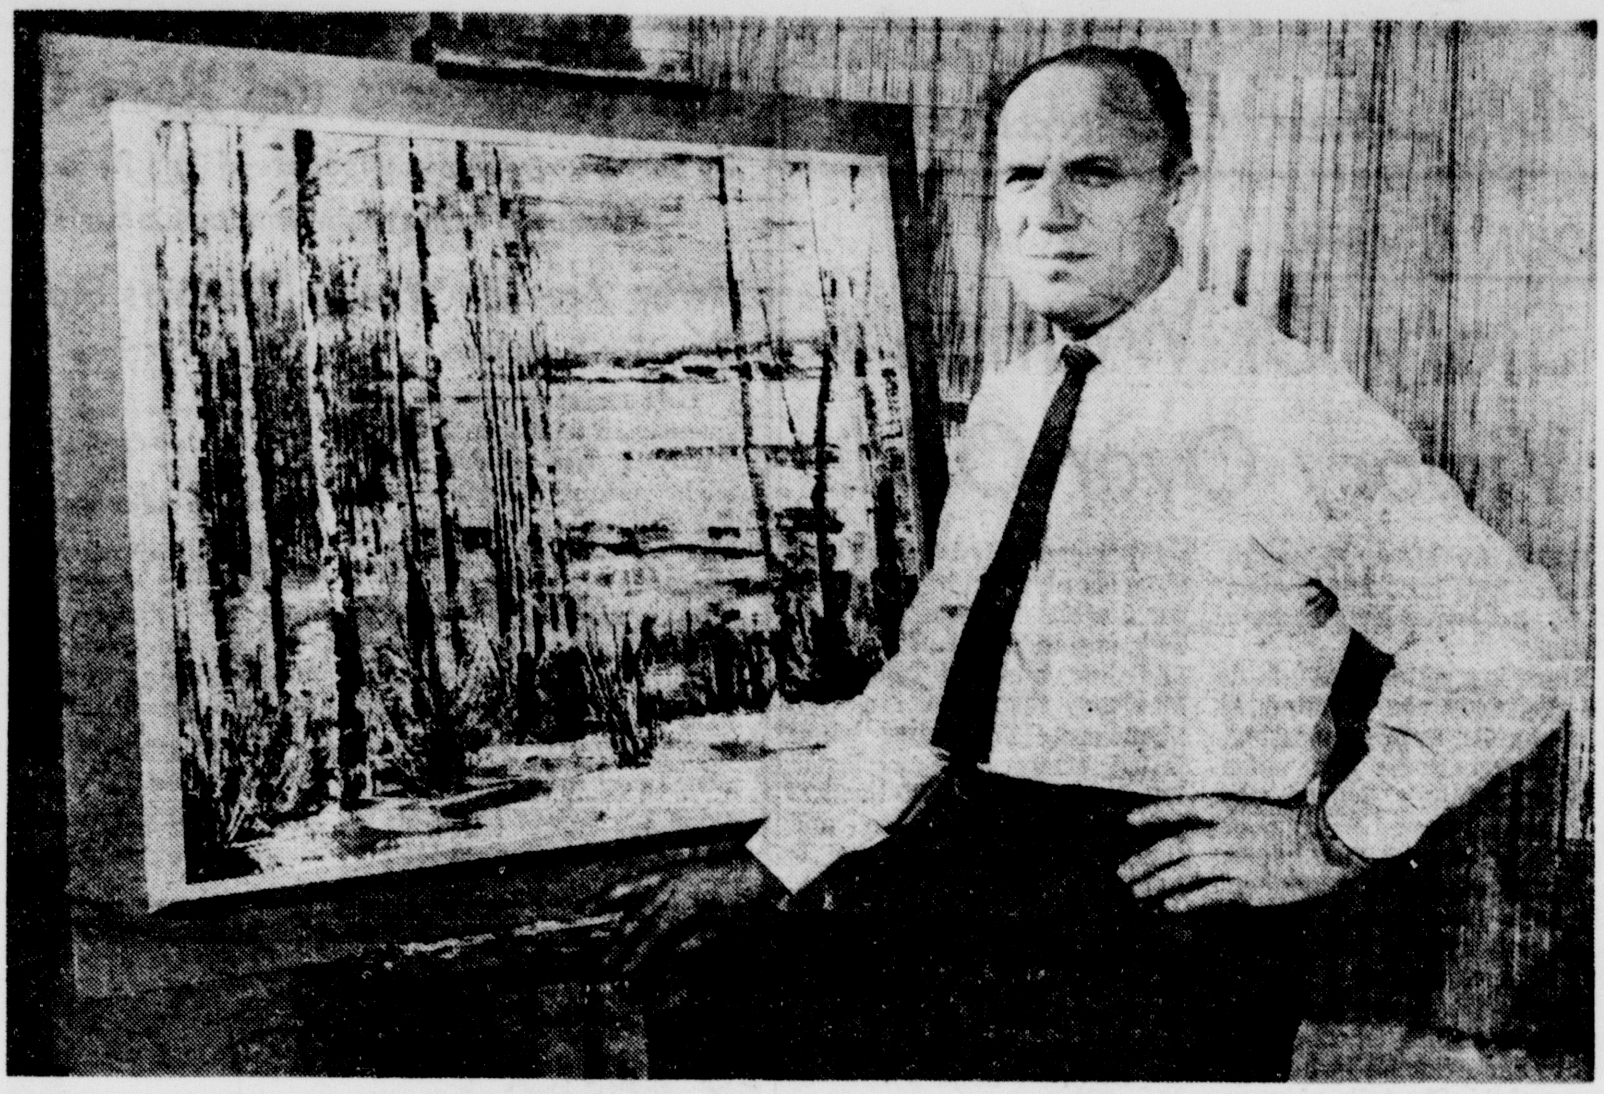

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

What should one expect from a Reverberation Unit? To sum this up in one sentence, a reverberation unit keeps the individual notes from dying out quickly; thus giving the listener the illusion that he is listening to the music in a large hall. A reverb does make a radiophonograph sound different; however, the listener should not confuse this difference with stereo. A good stereo system should be judged without a reverb unit in operation. Only then can you hear the true clean dimensional quality of accurately reproduced music. The reverb unit should be used only with extreme care and moderation and only with those recordings where a little more room effect is desired. Remember, a sharp clean, crisp sounding system is much harder to design and build than a mushy reverberant unit.

The reverb unit is an excellent addition to your music system if you play your electronic organ through the system. The organ music can be made to approach the sound of an organ being played in a large church or theater. The echo effect of the reverb unit can also be used to advantage by delaying the sound coming from the second speaker of your stereo system.

Come in for a demonstration of the reverb unit coupled with a stereo music system and an Electro-Voice organ.

POSING WITH ONE of his distinctive impressionistic landscapes is Oakland artist Robert Elsocht. He will demonstrate his technique of painting with palette and glazing knives at tomorrow's preview of the Marin Society of Artists Oil Show at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross. The show will then continue through February.

He Paints With Knives Instead Of Brushes

An artist who paints with knives, instead of brushes, will demonstrate his technique tomorrow at the Frances Young Gallery in the Marin Art and Garden Center at Ross.

He's Robert Elsocht of Oakland, whose impressionistic landscapes have won for him a number of honors in Bay Area shows and fairs.

His demonstration will be a highlight of the opening of the annual Marin Society of Artists Oil Show at the Young Gallery and is scheduled for 3 p.m. The gallery will be open from 2 to 5 p.m. tomorrow for the preview of the Oil Show, which will continue until Feb. 28 with the gallery open daily from 2 to 4 p.m. and on Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m.

ELSOCHT USES glazing knives of varying widths up to three inches to achieve his bold-stroke technique with both oil and polyester.

He is a graduate of the College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland, and is a designer and color coordinator for a Western hard-surface floor-covering manufacturer. At first his creative talents were directed into work in such crafts as fired-glass mosaics, ceramics and porcelain. But then he began to paint seriously, and his interest in this field soon eclipsed all others.

According to Elsocht, his departure from brush painting has allowed him more freedom of style.

The color is "buttered" on and the pigment remains relatively undisturbed.

THE RESULT, he says, is that the color retains "its natural color and vibrancy."

The new show at the Young Gallery will permit patrons to enjoy an entirely new selection of work in oil, enamel, encaustic and casein treated in oil. Dorothy Keyes and Winifred Koch are cochairmen of the exhibit. The show will be juried by Doris Morrison, Herbert Buel, Eleanore Bender, Frank Milner and Lotte McWatters. A cash award will accompany first prize ribbons, and ribbons will also be awarded for second and third prizes. Visitors tomorrow will ballot on their selections for "best in show."

HEART OF THE PIANO CONCERTO (Single movements from concerti by Beethoven, Saint-Saens, Rachmaninoff, Liszt, Chopin and Grieg) —Artur Rubenstein — RCA Victor Stereo LSC-2495.

A rather good idea, this. Certainly better than the old "Heart of . . . " discs which contained only Readers' Digest versions of movements.

Rubinstein's performances are, of course, impeccable and the sound is fine. The people at Victor seem to think they invented the concerto and they're offering this disc at a special $3.98 for stereo as an introduction to "The World of the Piano Concerto." If you haven't been introduced, this will take care of you fine.

THE DELIGHT OF any homemaker is her treasure chest. Here storage space for cherished china, silver and crystal has been built right into a beautifully paneled wall. Doors match paneling and are fitted with decorative hardware. The wood used here is West Coast hemlock, finished clear to exploit its delicate champagne coloring.

A Built-In Treasure Chest For Cherished Belongings

Pride of every homemaker through the ages has been her cherished collection of table silver, china and crystal.

Back in grandmother's day, a premium was placed on the use of these treasures—company dinner only. But today, the modern housewife has hers out for family meals as often as for dress-up occasions. The reason? Point-of-use storage.

Grandmother used to have to bring her things out from the back pantry—a job almost as big as cooking the dinner. Today, however, the dining room is equipped with china closets built right into the walls where every piece of stemware is kept spotless and every napkin lies unwrinkled in its designated place. And best of all, these closets keep the table trappings right at fingertip reach.

A built-in treasure chest can be designed various ways. Probably the favorite is to build it within the wall, in such a way that the cabinet work is disguised behind sleek doors that blend right into the wall.

Usually a wall paneled in a wood like West Coast hemlock is selected for built-in china cupboards because door joints are easily made to correspond with the joints of the paneling. In some cases, it takes X-ray vision to detect any door at all, for all hardware is hidden and latches are of the spring type that open by finger pressure. In other cases, the cabinet's presence is frankly proclaimed by use of decorative door pulls.

Inside the cabinet, shelving of strong, easily cleaned one-by-12-inch Douglas fir is often used. Glass shelving mounted on wall brackets is another possibility. Some shelves can be especially tailored to care for hard-to-store items like cups and platters. There should be drawers or sliding trays designed to accommodate folded linens and flat silver. These, too, can be of one-inch fir.

Some homemakers line the back of the cabinet with tarnish-resistant paper or cloth, which comes in a variety of attractive colors, to give added protection to their silver pieces.

When using a prestige wood like West Coast hemlock for the cabinetry and wall paneling, a clear finish is usually preferred.

Instruction For The Beginners In The Oriental Art Of Bonsai

regardless of how faithfully we water and fertilize. This is due to a root-bound condition. When the large amounts of roots takes up all the space in the container, they are so tight and compacted they are unable to take any water or nourishment — at least, not enough of them can, to sustain the plant normally.

THE TREATMENT of this condition is done in the spring, just before the new buds open. Conifer, broadleafed evergreens, deciduous trees, summer and fall flowering plants are the plants potted in the spring. Early flowering plants like the apricot, cherry and azalea are potted after they finish blooming. Hardy fruit bearing trees, and most berried plants are repotted in early autumn. In general, deciduous trees, which are faster growing, will need repotting every year or two. Broadleafed evergreens, in two to three years and conifers in four to five years. Newly acquired trees from a nursery or those dug from the field and grown in their natural soil for two or three years to establish a new root system are potted at the proper time of year for their species.

The container or bonsai pot is selected for a particular tree in the same way or for the same reason as a frame is selected for a painting. One should complement the other.

Everything needed for repotting should be ready in an area protected from the sun and wind. The work will then proceed without loss of time in order that the plant and its roots shall not dry out.

The selected pot is prepared first by covering the holes with one-eighth inch mesh wire and a layer of fine gravel. Next, about an inch of the prepared soil mix is put in. The tree is now removed from its container, and a chopstick is used in a combing manner to separate and straighten out the roots. About one third of the soil is removed in this manner. Each time the tree is repotted, a few of the thickest roots are cut out, and the rest are cut back so that they fit into the pot when they are arranged in all directions.

The bonsai Is then tried in the pot for artistic placement. In oval or oblong containers, bonsai are planted at a point about two thirds the distance from either end and just a trifle to the rear. In square or round pots, they are planted in the center. A layer of soil is added, and jabbed and firmed with a small blunt stick to eliminate air pockets. More soil is added as needed, leaving about one half inch for water.

SOIL SHOULD be firmed uniformly, so that all pockets of air are removed and water can permeate all parts evenly. Pieces of moss can be firmed onto the soil for a ground cover as desired. The newly planted bonsai is thoroughly and completely watered, and placed in a lath house or suitable shelter, protected from sun and wind for two or three weeks and given just enough water to keep the soil damp. Then as the roots take hold and grow, they can be given more sun each day. They may now be given the weak fertilizer solution of one to 10 at the weekly intervals with the established bonsai.

The bonsai grower must be able to judge a potential tree to be used for bonsai. Plants used for landscaping are usually stiffly staked upright plants, perfectly symmetrical and full. For our purpose we look for the interestingly unbalanced plant, irregularly branched with low horizontal growth. Two main essentials of bonsai are good health and eye appeal. New or young stock should have these qualities to start with. If they don't, the bonsai will look artificial or man-made.

In transplanting, pruning, pinching and wiring, form and style must be kept in mind. Rules have been established which includes their classifications and the manner in which they are used. The five basic styles—formal upright, informal upright, slanting or wind-blown, semi cascade and full cascade—include some 27 variations. Standards of height are also established—miniatures, small, medium and large.

KEEPING in mind the basic styles, the potting arrangements, and the sizes of the dwarf trees, any landscaping can be produced in miniature by one or more of the basic classifications.

However, as Americans, we have our own ideas. It is my contention that if we adopt an art form to satisfy a lack of some part in our personal complex, we do not necessarily have to follow through by accepting all the principles involved. Art is a personal expression and each of us will show it in our own way.

Of course, many of the small details and modes of differences as between various species of trees have been omitted in this discourse. Also, starting bonsai from seeds or cuttings, exact treatment of trees dug in the field, tools or equipment needed, cost, or amount of time devoted, and the many things to learn that are not found in any book have not been mentioned.

But the fundamentals are easily learned by the average gardener. To the uninitiated or the beginner, the required duties may sound quite complicated and tiring, but it all becomes quite simple through understanding what you are trying to accomplish in dwarfing a tree and with success comes a deep feeling for the gratitudes of a creative art.

It is true there are no short cuts to perfection and only one bonsai in a thousand will be acceptable as a perfect specimen. Among 100 or more bonsai, I do not have the perfect exhibition tree. Strictly speaking, the dedicated bonsai grower is always an amateur at heart—because he is always learning something new about bonsai.

A CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✔ Many vegetable plants are available in flats, including tomatoes, lettuce, chard and celery. They are easily transplanted.

✔ Set out spring-blooming annuals. A flat full of pansies or caledonia will bring spring to your garden in a hurry.

✔ Prune roses if you haven't already. Prune fuchsias, also, and don't be afraid to cut them back.

✔ Bare-root shade trees, fruit trees and shrubs can be planted through February. The earlier the better.

SOHNER CALENDAR

FRUIT TREE SPRAYING . . . A "Must"!

Now, in early February, Marin County fruit trees are in grave danger of disease infection. It is important to spray all fruit trees with a "delayed dormant" spray, at the time peaches are in "red bud" stage.

As many leaf diseases "winter over" on fallen leaves, garden debris should be removed, and shrubs sprayed.

Our Old Friends, The Ferryboats, Are Going To Be On Television

SENTIMENTAL Marinites should get a particular boot out of the "Expedition-California" show to be seen this coming Tuesday at 7 p.m. on KGO-TV (Channel 7).

Entitled "Clipper Ships and Paddlewheels," it will chronicle the history of San Francisco Bay and its ports from 1775 to the present. But we bet that the part which will catch the most attention of viewers here is a special segment on the much mourned ferryboats.

You'll see sleek clippers, big "down-easters," riverboat fleets, steam schooners, scow schooners, frigates, naval vessels including today's huge aircraft carriers and nuclear submarines. But we are confident that it will be the paddlewheelers of the comparatively recent ferryboat era that will provoke the most emotion from viewers.

INTELLECTUALS, or if you prefer, "eggheads," have apparently climbed in public esteem.

It is no secret that President John F. Kennedy just about depleted the Harvard University faculty in putting together his administration. And now a new television series will bow in tomorrow to spotlight that much neglected American, the college professor.

It is heartwarming to see television or anything else accord the profs the recognition they deserve. Looking back on our own life we discover that the two men who influenced its course the most — one from the standpoint of profession, the other as to social, political and economic philosophy — were both university professors. It would not be surprising if hundreds of thousands of other Americans would find the same is true for them if they took the time to make the examination.

Anyway, "Meet the Professor" will bow in on KGO-TV tomorrow at noon. Its purpose will be to introduce to Americans some of the men and women who are intrusted with the higher education of our young people. Dr. Harold Taylor, former president of Sarah Lawrence College, will be the program host. And the first prof to be introduced will be the imminent historian, Henry Steele Commager of Amherst College, a scholar of 40 years standing.

OTHER GOOD viewing during the coming week:

A repeat of the NBC Opera Company's production of Beethoven's "Fidelio" on KRON-TV, Sunday at 3 p.m.; a "Close-Up" report on the final testing of the X-15 rocket space ship on KGO-TV, Monday at 10:30 p.m.; a 90-minute adaptation of French playwright Jean Anouilh's "Time Remembered" on KRON, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.; another drama, W. Somerset Maugham's "String of Beads," on KRON, Tuesday at 10 p.m.; a study of problems of the single woman on KRON, Thursday at 2 p.m.; and a musical special, "Remember How Great," to be presided over by Jack Benny, Thursday on KRON at 8:30 p.m.

JAY ALEXANDER
To KPIX and Marin

THE NEW LOOK on KPIX-TV, starting Feb. 13, can be summarized as:

A new lineup of adventure shows in the 7 to 7:30 p. m. time spot Mondays through Fridays. Three of the five shows — "R.C.M.P.," "M-Squad," and "Death Valley Days" are not newcomers to the Bay Area. "Assignment Underwater," another diving series cast in the "Sea Hunt" mold and to be seen on Wednesdays, and "The Blue Angels," based on the exploits of the famed Navy pilots and scheduled for Thursday evenings, do provide some fresh faces.

The recruiting of newscaster Dean Evans from Oklahoma City for the news and public affairs staff with the special assignment of strengthening the 7 a. m. news report.

A new public affairs program entitled "Career" to be seen Tuesdays at 7:30 and which promises to be one of the very best of the Bay Area produced shows.

And a new lineup of cartoons for the kids for Monday through Friday from 6 to 6:30 p. m. Aside from the fact that the cartoons include the inimitable Mr. Magoo, there is little new to be found there. But what is new is the man KPIX has signed to preside over the cartoon show and hold the youngsters' interest.

He is Jay Alexander, six-foot five-inches tall, 36 years old, and, KPIX boasts, a real genuine cowboy. As Marshall J he will not only preside over the week day cartoon shows and pass along some advice on horses, roping and riding, cattle brands, etc., but he will also conduct a two-and-a-half hour show for the youngsters on Saturday.

Alexander is Texas born—starting his life at Del Rio near the Mexican border. He has ridden on a Texas ranch, and on the rodeo circuit as well, KPIX says.

He'll bring with him to KPIX his trick horse, Nugget, and his Dalmatian, Rascal. And he will join the long list of television personalities who make their home in Marin.

KPIX says he plans to acquire a "ranch" in the Novato area. And, KPIX hints, his services along with those of Nugget might very well be available from time to time at horse shows, rodeos, and similar events in Marin.

TRIESTE by

Bassett

A continental classic that's never dated . . . with warmth and variety to enrich your home . . . yet so easy to own

Trieste accent pieces make your home distinctively yours. Besides Venetian mahogany and Seville white bedroom and dining room pieces, you'll find night tables, cabinets and hutches in Athena blue and chairs, cabinets and hutches in Seville white.

The sunny smile of Adriatic villas is blended with classic touches; and deep-cut mouldings, authentic antique brass hardware, Hunter Green cabinet interiors. Superbly finished for permanent beauty in famous DuPont Dulux on select African mahogany veneers. Fine mirrors of Pittsburgh Plate Glass.

Trieste is 19th Century elegance, yet magnificently simple . . . Contemporary, yet eloquently extravagant. The happy marriage of many periods, many lands, achieved through months of research by Bassett designers in the hallowed halls of Europe. And Trieste's versatile collection of 30 pieces is a dream for do-it-yourself decorators.

Whether you prefer 19th Century, Contemporary, Modern, Traditional, Colonial or Provincial . . . Bellach's Design Center offers you a large diversified stock of fine furniture and accessories, carpets and draperies.

In our upholstery section, most of the designs have eminated from the drawing boards of our staff of decorators. See these sofas, sectionals, chairs in the newest colors and patterns.
